Fewer GIs in NATO Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is strong sentiment in the Senate for reducing U.S. troop commitments to North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations, an Associated Press survey disclosed today.

Forty-four senators said they favored eventual withdrawal of a substantial portion of the six U.S. divisions of 225,000 American fighting men massed along the Iron Curtain.

But of this group, only 15 said they would cut U.S. forces to a token level of one division at this time as suggested recently by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

The question asked senators was: "Do you believe Western Europe should take over its own primary defenses with U.S. ground troops reduced to a token level. Why?"

Mansfield said in an interview May 16 that Western Europe ought to be taking over its own defenses. He added that a single division would serve as well as six as a token of the United States presence on the continent and as a guarantee of American response to any Communist attack on the West.

Fifteen senators disagreed with Mansfield's position, most of them saying the United States must stand by its treaty commitments to NATO in spite of France's forthcoming withdrawal of troops from the alliance.

Sixteen senators declined to take a public position on the issue, but several of them said privately they favored gradual withdrawal of U.S. troops. Twenty-five senators were not reached by the survey.

There is recent evidence of Pentagon support for thinning out U.S. units in Europe. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said in a speech last week "the American people are not going to shirk their obligations in any part of the world, but they clearly cannot be expected to bear a disproportionate share of the common burden indefinitely."

Among senators who gave full approval to reducing U.S. forces to a token level, many cited Western Europe's failure to live up to its NATO commitments despite economic prosperity. Several cited the drain on U.S. balance of payments.

In this group were Democratic Sens. Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania, Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana, Ernest Gruening of Alaska, Vance Hartke of Indiana, Thomas J. McIntyre, New Hampshire, Wayne Morse of Oregon, William Proxmire of Wisconsin, Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut, George A. Smathers of Florida, John J. Sparkman of Alabama, Stephen M. Young of Ohio, and Mansfield.

Republicans included Sens. George D. Aiken of Vermont, Peter H. Dominick of Colorado, and Hiram L. Fong of Hawaii.

Gruening said Western Europe is "fully able to defend itself" and "it is time we stopped overextending ourselves."

Convicted Man 'Clears Up' Old Burglaries for Sheriff

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff reported today that three burglaries, one of them in 1959, have been "cleared up."

Sheriff Radcliff said Joseph Fitzgerald, convicted of receiving stolen property, admitted taking part in three burglaries. The admission was made Wednesday while Radcliff was transporting the man to the Mansfield Reformatory.

According to the information given the sheriff, Fitzgerald was involved in the burglary of the Wendell Wardell home near Orient on Feb. 4, 1959. He also admitted breaking into an automobile at Logan Elm High School on Nov. 23, 1960, when articles valued at more than $500 were taken.

He also admitted entering the Van Meter Hulse home near New Holland on Feb. 5, 1965. The sheriff said he also confessed several unsolved burglaries that occurred in neighboring counties.

FITZGERALD is one of three men convicted in connection with a five-county burglary operation. He was sentenced to two concurrent terms of 1 to 7 years on two counts of receiving stolen property.

Radcliff noted that no further charges will be filed at this time on the other cases.

The sheriff pointed out that maintaining an accurate serial number record of property proved to be great assistance to his department.

He urged all local residents to record serial numbers of any major appliance, weapon or article of value they might have in their possession.

"These serial numbers make identification of stolen property and its subsequent recovery much easier," he added.

Radcliff also urged local residents noticing unusual activity to notify the department immediately.

U.S. Building Is Sacked by Viet Students

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (A) — Screaming students set fire to the U.S. Information Service building in the rebellious northern city of Hue today.

The mob attacked the modern, two-story building after Buddhist leaders at a protest funeral march by thousands assailed the United States for supporting Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime.

The U.S.I.S. building was closed and no Americans were injured.

On the war front, ground action was reported at a near standstill and U.S. B52 bombers led the offensive with attacks on four Viet Cong areas. The war scene was dominated by the report of casualties last week, which said the number of allied battle dead more than doubled and the number of U.S. casualties—146 killed and 820 wounded—was the highest for any week of the war. The previous casualty high—240 killed and 470 wounded—came last November during the fighting in the Ia Drang Valley.

A military spokesman said the high toll was the result of the numerous battalion size actions during the week rather than any one major engagement.

"There were more battalions in the field than ever before," he said.

The allied dead totaled 386 last week, compared with 161 the week before. Spokesmen reported 1,235 Communists killed, a rise of 25 per cent over the 998 the week before.

In Hue, smoke belched from the U.S.I.S. building as the flames consumed books, bookshelves and library tables.

Parade, Program Slated in City On Memorial Day

A customary Memorial Day parade and program will be observed Monday in Circleville.

The traditional day of tribute here to Americans who gave their lives for their country will be under direction of the Pickaway County Monumental Assn. Ermil Stonerock, commander of Hall-Adkins American Legion Post 134, will serve as parade grand marshal.

According to program director Robert Liston, initial services will be conducted by the American Legion at High St. Cemetery at 9 a. m. The parade and an observance at Forest Cemetery will follow.

The parade will form on the north side of E. Main St. at 9:15 a. m. Liston said all marching units must be ready to move out at 9:30 a. m. sharp.

THE REV. Paul Wachs of the First Methodist Church will serve as speaker at the Forest Cemetery service, in addition to offering Invocation and Benediction. Edgar Haynes is chairman of the Graves Flagg Committee and James Shea will perform the duties of master of ceremonies.

Numerous units are scheduled to take part in the parade. The order of march will include police, sheriff and State Highway Patrol cruisers, the American Legion Color Guard, the National Guard Firing Squad, Circleville's National Guard unit, the Circleville High School Band, VFW members and auxiliary, autos for disabled veterans, American Legion members and auxiliary, veterans of all wars, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts

Soybean Deal Being Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is investigating a complaint that an unauthorized and premature disclosure of President Johnson's plans to increase soybean acreage this year permitted a speculator to make "a pile of money."

This became known Wednesday after an investigator of the department's Office of Inspector General — an agency set up after the Billie Sol Estes scandals — questioned newsmen regarding their handling of the President's announcement.

Johnson told Congress in a special message Feb. 10 that he had instructed Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to encourage production of soybeans on land formerly planted to surplus grains. The plan was part of the President's food for peace program outlined that day.

A spokesman for the inspector general's office, while withholding details of the complaint, said the agency had been informed that a report of the presidential plans had been published well ahead of the 12 noon release time.

Advance information on a possible increase in soybean production could be used by a speculative trader, to sell soybeans for future delivery at a potentially large profit. The trader would be confident that soybeans could be obtained at a future delivery date at a much lower price because of the prospect of larger supplies.

The inspector general's investigating unit was created by Freeman after the 1962 disclosure of illegal transactions by Estes, a Texas financier involved in the purchase of cotton acreage planting allotments. Estes is now serving a prison term in connection with alleged fraud in fertilizer sales transactions with farmers.

Minimum Wage Issue Is Debated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of minimum wage legislation ask the House today to reverse a vote removing 1.6 million small firm employees from the bill's proposed coverage.

The vote Wednesday marred a precedent shattering triumph for the measure's supporters, who succeeded in retaining a provision extending minimum wage coverage for the first time to upwards of 400,000 workers.

The bill's backers face another struggle today over an amendment that would delay until 1970 an increase in the minimum wage to $1.60 an hour. The wage now is $1.25 and the bill would boost it to $1.40 next February and to $1.60 in 1968.

The amendment eliminating coverage of 1.6 million employees of small business and industrial firms was adopted by a nonrecord vote of 120 to 109. Under House rules it can be put to a roll call vote before final action on the bill.

Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., the bill's manager, said he will request such a roll call. He predicted the House would unJdo Wednesday's action.

Dent is counting on an admitted error in the amendment to help overturn the vote.

The amendment's author, Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., said he intended to block extension of the minimum wage law to workers in 95,000 retail and service establishments doing less than an annual gross business of $500,000. The bill would have dropped the present $1 million limit to $500,000 next year and to $250,000 in 1969.

In drafting the measure, however, Anderson also knocked out 650,000 employees of other businesses, including mining, manufacturing, processing, communications, finance and insurance, that do less than $1 million a year gross business.

The House voted 157 to 149 to reject an amendment by Rep. David T. Martin, R-Neb., to delete the farm provision. The bill would cover farms that employ 500 man-days of labor in any quarter.

The farm worker minimum would start at $1 an hour next Feb. 1, go to $1.15 in 1968 and to $1.30 in 1969. Other newly covered workers would get two additional 15-cent raises, reaching $1.60 in 1971.

Suicide Chain Is Mystery To Coroner

REDWOOD CITY Calif. (AP) — Burns suffered in line of duty caused pain to a South San Francisco city fireman.

The fireman, Robert Murphy, 34, hanged himself in a clothes closet of his home Nov. 28, 1964.

The picture of Murphy's body hanging from a clothes pole was seen by a part-time South San Francisco City Hall clerk, Lillian Stone, 53. In June 1965, she hanged herself.

Gregory Rogers, 23, a South San Francisco fireman, was in a group of men which cut down Murphy's body.

Three weeks ago, Rogers hanged himself in a clothes closet.

Mrs. Joe Ann Graham, 24, a mother of two, has a brother, Joseph Terron, in the South San Francisco Fire Department. Terron was acquainted with Murphy and Rogers.

Tuesday Mrs. Graham hung herself with electric cords from a shower rail at her Redwood City home.

"I've never heard of such a suicide chain developing anywhere before," said San Mateo County's coroner, Paul B. Jensen.

"I'm concerned and I certainly want to investigate them."

Annie Laurie's Home for Sale

LONDON (AP) — Annie Laurie's 17th century home is up for sale.

London agents announced that Maj. Gen. Sir John Laurie, direct descendant of Annie, has decided to let go of the property, Maxwellton House, in Dumfriesshire, on the southwestern tip of Scotland.

Maxwellton House was built on the site of Glencairn Castle where Annie Laurie was born Dec. 16, 1682. Her first suitor, Capt. William Douglas, wrote the love song to her but she married Alexander Fergusson, the son of a neighbor, and lived to the age of 81.

The house, a big one of about 30 rooms, still has a round tower and several 12-foot-thick walls from the medieval castle.

Salvation Army Flag Is Atop State Capitol

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Flags of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion and the red feather of the Community Chest are among those that have waved atop the Maryland statehouse.

The Legislative Council Wednesday proposed a bill to permit the flying of only the U.S. and Maryland flags.

Cigarette Tax OK'd

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A cigarette tax of 4 cents a package has won the approval of Oregon voters, leaving North Carolina as the only state without a tax on cigarettes.

Medical Schools' Family Doctor Output Said Poor

CLEVELAND (AP) — Testimony before the resolutions committee of the Ohio State Medical Association (OSMA) says Ohio's medical schools take little responsibility to meet the state's "dire and critical" need for family physicians.

The testimony was given at the association's annual convention Wednesday on a resolution offered by the Huron County Medical Society. The resolution urged deans of medical schools in Ohio to take wholehearted and diligent action to meet the public's need by training more family physicians.

It was brought out at the committee meeting that the OSMA's Physician Placement Bureau receives 15 times as many requests for family physicians or general practitioners as it does for specialists.

1000 Girls Join Search For Mates

ESPARROS, France (AP) — Nearly a thousand unmarried women are expected to flock into the Esparros region of the Pyrenees this weekend in search of husbands.

They are coming to a "bachelors' festival" which more than 600 lonely men in the region of southwest France are holding.

Hotels and restaurants for miles around will be swamped. The gendarmes are sending 100 men, 10 radio trucks and a helicopter to handle the crowds.

The village priest of Esparros, who hasn't rung the wedding bells for four years, is looking for plenty of ringing in the coming months.

This village of 240 has 28 bachelors, most of them 30 to 60 years old. It was among them the festival idea began. They got tired of going home alone, having dinner with aged parents, and going to bed early.

Mayor M. Duthu talked it over with the priest. They organized a committee and set aside May 29-30 for the affair.

Both issued official invitations to single women — the mayor through official channels to all the other town halls of France, the priest to other churches.

Each visitor will receive a white numbered corsage. The first step will be to find the bachelor with the same number on his red boutonniere.

Once Around Roundtown

PICKAWAY County Deputy Sheriff Warren Straley has completed a 3-week course in fingerprinting sciences at London Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

It was the first law enforcement schooling for Deputy Straley. Sheriff Dwight Radcliff reported his deputy was second in the class, just a half point behind an officer who had been through three other training schools.

Coast Guard Backed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved legislation to increase the Coast Guard's officer corps from 3,500 to 4,000 and permit it to establish an aviation cadet program.

Public Asked To Help Find Slayer of 3

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Without some help from the public a "sadistic killer" believed to have slain three men may never be caught, police said today.

"Nothing is new," said Detective Capt. Tom Sawyer of the search for the slayer of Loren E. Bollinger, a rocket scientist.

"If we don't get some help from the public, there won't be anything new."

Bollinger was killed with the same pistol used in two robbery slayings last fall, police say, and the same person is suspected in all three cases.

A group of scientists, meanwhile, began a reward fund for the Bollinger case.

Police believe the unknown slayer is a sadist who could kill again.

No witnesses have been found to the slaying of Bollinger, 40-year-old bachelor rocket researcher at Ohio State University who was found dead Monday in a small downtown office building.

Nor have any witnesses ever been found to the robbery slayings last fall of two gas station attendants, Chester Joseph Scowden, 19, and Claude Quesenberry, 41.

Quesenberry was slain at a station in West Jefferson, 10 miles west of Columbus.

Cardinal OKs Protestant Bible Text

BOSTON (AP) — Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston, has given official Roman Catholic approval to a Protestant version of the Bible.

The move, described by a priest as a "breakthrough for the ecumenical movement," means Roman Catholics everywhere can use the Revised Standard Version of the Oxford annotated Bible.

The approval covers "common usage," such as home Bible reading and study groups, but does not extend to liturgical use.

Cardinal Cushing gave the version his approval, known as an "imprimatur," late last month. The action was announced Wednesday.

An imprimatur is permission from an ecclesiastical authority that a book may be safely read by Roman Catholics without damage to faith or morals.

The revised Oxford version was authorized by the National Council of Churches of the U.S.A. in 1951 and first published by Oxford Press in 1962 for Protestant use.

It derives from the classic King James version of 1611.

Deaf Mute Sister Tries To Save Boy

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Raymon Delgado, 3, fell into the Miami River Wednesday before the eyes of his deaf-mute sister and a few yards away from his parents.

The sister, Rosito, 14, rushed up to their parents and tried to explain that Raymon had slipped into the river from a fishing boat.

By the time their father understood and plunged into the water, Raymon had drowned, police said.

Arson Seen In Fire at Kent State

KENT, O. (AP) — Kent State University coeds at Verder Hall, scene of a $50 to $100,000 fire Wednesday, say they believe the fire was purposely set.

The girls said that this is the fifth fire incident in a little more than a month. Three of the incidents were serious enough to call the fire department.

State Fire Inspector Michael Melillo of Youngstown and Kent Fire Chief Fred Miller are investigating the fire which routed 263 coeds from the dormitory early Wednesday.

Melillo said several girls in the dormitory had been questioned in connection with the fire.

The fire destroyed a first-floor lounge and a recreation area in the front of the building.

Coeds said two incidents involved iron left on furniture. One girl said that when she returned to her room in Verder she found an iron searing the top of her sofa. She said she did not leave the iron plugged in.

Other girls said that they had received permission to conduct all-night watches the past few weeks to guard against more incidents.

Leaf Beetle Rule Is Due on June 1

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's director of agriculture, John M. Stackhouse, reminded producers and shippers of barley, oats, wheat and other small grains today that after June 1 each shipment must be accompanied by a cereal leaf beetle certificate if it is to be shipped outside the area of Ohio to which cereal leaf beetle regulations apply.

While the entire state is under quarantine, regulations now apply to only two-thirds of the state. The area regulated includes parts of Butler, Ross, Hocking and Wayne counties, all of Warren, Clinton, Fayette, Fairfield, Licking, Knox, Ashland, Lorain and Cuyahoga counties, and all counties north and west of those counties.

Is There Intelligence 'Out There'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Does intelligence exist "out there?"

A scientist-priest says yes, and speculates some may be angel-like superior beings while others may be "fallen" creatures like ourselves.

Four hundred scientists and space engineers applauded Dr. Lynch at the closing session of a meeting devoted to technical aspects of "the search for extraterrestrial life."

Commented Dr. Harold Klein, assistant director for life sciences at the U.S. Space Agency's Ames Research Center, who invited Dr. Lynch to speak:

"I confess I am surprised at the positive position taken by him. It is obvious the church is prepared for the contingency we may find intelligent life on other worlds. It is coming to grips with this problem."

Said Dr. Ernan McMullin, professor of philosophy at the University of Notre Dame, also on the symposium panel:

"The possibility of a plurality of worlds has been discussed by theologians since the 14th Century."

After men like Dr. Frank Drake of Cornell University's Center for Radiophysics proposed huge radio observatories to hunt for emissions from distant civilizations, Dr. Lynch offered this admittedly theological clincher:

"It seems reasonable to suppose some of our extraterrestrial neighbors would survive the test (of acknowledging God's supremacy, which He said caused some angels to fall) and some, like ourselves, fail as we did in the person of our first parents (Adam and Eve)."

"We could expect, therefore, at least two broad classes of extraterrestrial neighbors: Those who survived the test and those who failed."

Dr. Lynch added there might even be a civilization worse than ours: "A race fallen but not redeemed — a possibility I do not care to entertain — would be far inferior to us."

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is strong sentiment in the Senate for reducing U.S. troop commitments to North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations, an Associated Press survey disclosed today.

Forty-four senators said they favored eventual withdrawal of a substantial portion of the six U.S. divisions of 225,000 American fighting men massed along the Iron Curtain.

But of this group, only 15 said they would cut U.S. forces to a token level of one division at this time as suggested recently by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

The question asked senators was: "Do you believe Western Europe should take over its own primary defenses with U.S. ground troops reduced to a token level. Why?"

Mansfield said in an interview May 16 that Western Europe ought to be taking over its own defenses. He added that a single division would serve as well as six as a token of the United States presence on the continent and as a guarantee of American response to any Communist attack on the West.

Fifteen senators disagreed with Mansfield's position, most of them saying the United States must stand by its treaty commitments to NATO in spite of France's forthcoming withdrawal of troops from the alliance.

Sixteen senators declined to take a public position on the issue, but several of them said privately they favored gradual withdrawal of U.S. troops. Twenty-five senators were not reached by the survey.

There is recent evidence of Pentagon support for thinning out U.S. units in Europe. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said in a speech last week "the American people are not going to shirk their obligations in any part of the world, but they clearly cannot be expected to bear a disproportionate share of the common burden indefinitely."

Among senators who gave full approval to reducing U.S. forces to a token level, many cited Western Europe's failure to live up to its NATO commitments despite economic prosperity. Several cited the drain on U.S. balance of payments.

In this group were Democratic Sens. Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania, Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana, Ernest Gruening of Alaska, Vance Hartke of Indiana, Thomas J. McIntyre,

New Hampshire, Wayne Morse of Oregon, William Proxmire of Wisconsin, Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut, George A. Smathers of Florida, John J. Sparkman of Alabama, Stephen M. Young of Ohio, and Mansfield.

Republicans included Sens. George D. Aiken of Vermont, Peter H. Dominick of Colorado, and Hiram L. Fong of Hawaii.

Grain Market Speculation Hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is investigating a complaint that an unauthorized and premature disclosure of President Johnson's plans to increase soybean acreage this year permitted a speculator to make "a pile of money."

This became known Wednesday after an investigator of the department's Office of Inspector General — an agency set up after the Billie Sol Estes scandals — questioned newsmen regarding their handling of the President's announcement.

Johnson told Congress in a special message Feb. 10 that he had instructed Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to encourage production of soybeans on land formerly planted to surplus grains. The plan was part of the President's food for peace program outlined that day.

A spokesman for the inspector general's office, while withholding details of the complaint, said the agency had been informed that a report of the presidential plans had been published well ahead of the 12 noon release time.

Advance information on a possible increase in soybean production could be used by a speculative trader, to sell soybeans for future delivery at a potentially large profit. The trader would be confident that soybeans could be obtained at a future delivery date at a much lower price because of the prospect of larger supplies.

The inspector general's investigating unit was created by Freeman after the 1962 disclosure of illegal transactions by Estes, a Texas financier involved in the purchase of cotton acreage planting allotments. Estes is now serving a prison term in connection with alleged fraud in fertilizer sales transactions with farmers.

Public Asked To Help Find Slayer of 3

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Without some help from the public a "sadistic killer" believed to have slain three men may never be caught, police said today.

"Nothing is new," said Detective Capt. Tom Sawyer of the search for the slayer of Loren E. Bollinger, a rocket scientist. "If we don't get some help from the public, there won't be anything new."

A group of scientists, meanwhile, began a reward fund for the Bollinger case.

Police believe the unknown slayer is a sadist who could kill again.

No witnesses have been found to the slaying of Bollinger, 40-year-old bachelor rocket researcher at Ohio State University who was found dead Monday in a small downtown office building.

Nor have any witnesses ever been found to the robbery slayings last fall of two gas station attendants, Chester Joseph Scowden, 19, and Claude Quisenberry, 41.

Quisenberry was slain at a station in West Jefferson, 10 miles west of Columbus.

Minimum Wage Issue Is Debated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of minimum wage legislation ask the House today to reverse a vote removing 1.6 million small firm employees from the bill's proposed coverage.

The vote Wednesday marred a precedent shattering triumph for the measure's supporters, who succeeded in retaining a provision extending minimum wage coverage for the first time to upwards of 400,000 workers.

The bill's backers face another struggle today over an amendment that would delay until 1970 an increase in the minimum wage to $1.60 an hour. The wage now is $1.25 and the bill would boost it to $1.40 next February and to $1.60 in 1968.

The amendment eliminating coverage of 1.6 million employees of small business and industrial firms was adopted by a nonrecord vote of 120 to 109. Under House rules it can be put to a roll call vote before final action on the bill.

Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., the bill's manager, said he will request such a roll call. He predicted the House would unJdo Wednesday's action.

Dent is counting on an admitted error in the amendment to help overturn the vote.

The amendment's author, Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., said he intended to block extension of the minimum wage law to workers in 95,000 retail and service establishments doing less than an annual gross business of $500,000. The bill would have dropped the present $1 million limit to $500,000 next year and to $25,000 in 1969.

In drafting the measure, however, Anderson also knocked out 650,000 employees of other businesses, including mining, manufacturing, processing, communications, finance and insurance, that do less than $1 million a year gross business.

The House voted 157 to 149 to reject an amendment by Rep. David T. Martin, R-Neb., to delete the farm provision. The bill would cover farms that employ 500 man-days of labor in any quarter.

The farm worker minimum would start at $1 an hour next Feb. 1, go to $1.15 in 1968 and to $1.30 in 1969. Other newly covered workers would get two additional 15-cent raises, reaching $1.60 in 1971.

Arson Seen In Fire at Kent State

KENT, O. (AP) — Kent State University coeds at Verder Hall, scene of a $50 to $10,000 fire Wednesday, say they believe the fire was purposely set.

The girls said that this is the fifth fire incident in a little more than a month. Three of the incidents were serious enough to call the fire department.

State Fire Inspector Michael Melillo of Youngstown and Kent Fire Chief Fred Miller are investigating the fire which routed 263 coeds from the dormitory early Wednesday.

Melillo said several girls in the dormitory had been questioned in connection with the fire.

The fire destroyed a first-floor lounge and a recreation area in the front of the building.

Coeds said two incidents involved irons left on furniture. One girl said that when she returned to her room in Verder she found an iron searing the top of her sofa. She said she did not leave the iron plugged in.

Leaf Beetle Rule Is Due on June 1

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's director of agriculture, John M. Stackhouse, reminded producers and shippers of barley, oats, wheat and other small grains today that after June 1 each shipment must be accompanied by a cereal leaf beetle certificate if it is to be shipped outside the area of Ohio to which cereal leaf beetle regulations apply.

While the entire state is under quarantine, regulations now apply to only two-thirds of the state. The area regulated includes parts of Butler, Ross, Hocking and Wayne counties, all of Warren, Clinton, Fayette, Fairfield, Licking, Knox, Ashland, Lorain and Cuyahoga counties, and all counties north and west of those counties.

Suicide Chain Is Mystery To Coroner

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Burns suffered in line of duty caused pain to a South San Francisco city fireman.

The fireman, Robert Murphy, 34, hanged himself in a clothes closet of his home Nov. 28, 1964.

The picture of Murphy's body hanging from a clothes pole was seen by a part-time South San Francisco City Hall clerk, Lillian Stone, 55. In June 1965, she hanged herself.

Gregory Rogers, 23, a South San Francisco fireman, was in a group of men which cut down Murphy's body.

Three weeks ago Rogers hanged himself in a clothes closet.

Mrs. Joe Ann Graham, 24, a mother of two, has a brother, Joseph Terton, in the South San Francisco Fire Department. Terton was acquainted with Murphy and Rogers.

Tuesday Mrs. Graham hung herself with electric cords from a shower rail at her Redwood City home.

"I've never heard of such a suicide chain developing anywhere before," said San Mateo County's coroner, Paul B. Jensen.

Is There Intelligence 'Out There'?

A scientist-priest says yes, and speculates some may be angel-like superior beings while others may be "fallen" creatures like ourselves.

Four hundred scientists and space engineers applauded Dr. Lynch at the closing session of a meeting devoted to technical aspects of "the search for extraterrestrial life."

Commented Dr. Harold Klein, assistant director for life sciences at the U.S. Space Agency's Ames Research Center, who invited Dr. Lynch to speak:

"I confess I am surprised at the positive position taken by him. It is obvious the church is prepared for the contingency we may find intelligent life on other worlds. It is coming to grips with this problem."

Said Dr. Ernan McMullin, professor of philosophy at the University of Notre Dame, also on the symposium panel:

"The possibility of a plurality of worlds has been discussed by theologians since the 14th Century."

After men like Dr. Frank Drake of Cornell University's Center for Radiophysics proposed huge radio observatories to hunt for emissions from distant civilizations, Dr. Lynch offered this admittedly theological clincher:

"It seems reasonable to suppose some of our extraterrestrial neighbors would survive the test (of acknowledging God's supremacy, which He said caused some angels to fall) and some, like ourselves, fall as we did in the person of our first parents (Adam and Eve)."

Dr. Lynch added there might even be a civilization worse than ours: "A race fallen but not redeemed — a possibility I do not care to entertain — would be far inferior to us."

New Federal Regulations Asked on Campaign Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to modernize laws covering political campaign financing and set up a system under which millions more people might get a $100 income tax reduction for political contributions.

Johnson also proposed: That all candidates and all committees submitting candidates for federal office be required to report every contribution and every expense item above $100.

That members of Senate and House be required to report on outside income, from such things as speeches, consultant or legal fees, or any sources other than from investments.

Administration officials estimated the tax break on contributions would cost the government perhaps $50 million in a presidential election year and perhaps $20 million in other years.

Officials said it was aimed largely at about 36 million persons who are mostly in the lower income tax brackets.

The administration wants to make the new system effective at the start of next year and officials said they thought they had reason for hope that Congress will go along.

The President sent Congress a proposed bill to carry out the new plan along with a letter to the Senate president and House speaker.

The new law would go far beyond the present statutes by applying many provisions to state and local elections as well as to primaries. Johnson said the exemption of primaries in present law is a major defect.

The new plan would limit to $5,000 the total financing any candidate could receive from any single source.

Existing ceilings on total expenditures by candidates for public office would be repealed—the limits are $25,000 on senatorial candidates and the $5,000 on House candidates.

Under existing law, national political committees can raise and spend no more than $3 million in any one year—but there is no limit on the number of such committees and the law doesn't apply to a committee active only in one state.

Guyanese Celebrating Their New Independence

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP) — Floodlights lit up the midnight sky Wednesday night and 50,000 Guyanese cheered as the five-colored flag of Guyana went up in place of the Union Jack, signaling independence for another British colony.

The joyous outburst came after a solemn moment in Queen Elizabeth Park when the British flag was lowered in darkness while bands played "God Save the Queen."

A few persons near the press box shouted, "Down! Down for good!"

Rowboat Crewmen Seek Good Wind

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — There's nothing wrong with Puffin a westerly wind couldn't cure.

That was the word Wednesday from the Coast Guard cutter Conifer concerning the 15-foot rowboat in which two English journalists set out last Saturday to cross the Atlantic Ocean.

The Puffin was spotted by the Conifer about 10 1/2 miles off Cape Charles on Virginia's eastern shore, its occupants in good condition.

David Johnstone, 34, and John Hoare, 29, were not ready to give up, said Lt. T.D. Keith, the cutter's executive officer. He said their only needs were a dry chart and favorable winds.

RETIREMENT COMIN' — Sgt. Turney Ross, a veteran of 25 years with the Circleville Police Department, is anticipating his retirement. The officer, who is 61 years young, is looking forward to pursuing his hobbies of motorcycling and fishing. In addition, he plans to open a small repair shop at his residence on E. Union St.

The saddest duty a policeman has to perform, according to Ross, is notifying the next of kin when a person loses his or her life in an automobile accident.

Ross was appointed a regular police officer April 15, 1941 and promoted to sergeant April 30, 1953. Shortly after he worked with Pickaway County Sheriff's Department in clearing up a murder case.

The body of a Laurelville man was found in a pond near Container Corporation.

Ross worked with Earl Weaver and Miller Fissell in solving the crime. It was evidence presented by Ross which led to the arrest and ultimate conviction of the accused, Fissell is now Circleville's safety director.

The first man Ross arrested was a speeding motorist. He no longer remembers the name of the man, but he does recall that he apprehended him as he left a restaurant, just across the street from the police department.

He finds that persons arrested sometimes carry a "grudge" but usually not for more than three or four weeks.

ROSS has worked under three police chiefs. William F. (Bugs) McCrady was at the helm when he started. At that time, a policeman was on duty 12 hours a day, seven days a week and got paid at the rate of $2.50 a day. Elmer Merriman succeeded McCrady and later Robert Temple, the present chief, was Ross' superior officer.

"It has been a pretty good life," Ross says, as he looks back over his career. "If I had it to do over again, I would have started on the force when I was younger," he noted.

His advice to new officers is to keep an accurate day-to-day account of activities. "They might be able to write a book."

The sergeant's locker at the station is filled with many memories of his tour of duty. It is also a veritable arsenal. During the years, Ross has accumulated 10 guns, including eight handguns, a .22 caliber rifle and a 12-gauge shotgun.

In addition to the artillery, the locker houses other "tools of the trade," such as a black jack, billy clubs, a "claw" handcuff — all articles which have been little used in recent years.

BEFORE he started his police work, Ross worked at Container Corporation. He also was a broom maker at Goeller's Broom Factory.

With the exception of three years in service, all his life has been spent in Circleville. He is married to the former Lida

May Goff. They have no children.

Ross plans to start a small repair shop to occupy his retirement years, working on small motors, lawnmowers and sharpening tools.

He also plans to pursue his hobbies a little more thoroughly.

He is an ardent motorcyclist and has owned a two-wheeled vehicle for more than 30 years. In addition, he likes to fish.

New Federal Regulations Asked on Campaign Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to modernize laws covering political campaign financing and set up a system under which millions more people might get a $100 income tax reduction for political contributions.

Johnson also proposed: That all candidates and all committees submitting candidates for federal office be required to report every contribution and every expense item above $100.

That members of Senate and House be required to report on outside income, from such things as speeches, consultant or legal fees, or any sources other than from investments. Administration officials estimated the tax break on contributions would cost the government perhaps $50 million in a presidential election year and perhaps $20 million in other years.

Officials said it was aimed largely at about 36 million persons who are mostly in the lower income tax brackets.

The administration wants to make the new system effective at the start of next year and officials said they thought they had reason to hope that Congress will go along.

The President sent Congress a proposed bill to carry out the new plan along with a letter to the Senate president and House speaker.

The new law would go far beyond the present statutes by applying many provisions to state and local elections as well as to primaries. Johnson said the exemption of primaries in present law is a major defect.

The new plan would limit to $5,000 the total financing any candidate could receive from any single source.

Existing ceilings on total expenditures by candidates for public office would be repealed — the limits are $25,000 on senatorial candidates and the $5,000 on House candidates.

Under existing law, national political committees can raise and spend no more than $3 million in any one year—but there is no limit on the number of such committees and the law doesn't apply to a committee active only in one state.

Arnold Dings, 38, Commercial Point; $15 and costs for driving a motor vehicle without headlights turned on as required by law.

Donald H. Webster, 20, Ashville; $20 and costs for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Larry McGarvey, 18, Chillicothe; $15 and costs for failure to heed a stop sign.

Ray Pence, 57, Sabina; $15 and costs for failure to yield the right of way.

Olive M. Shaw, 76, Williamsport; $30 and costs for failure to maintain an assured clear distance in which to stop.

Joseph H. Russo, 30, 310 Logan St.; John McCarty, Reynoldsburg; Larry Irvin, 21, Pedro; Gary Duzan, 19, Portsmouth; $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — With their Atlas target booster rocket cleared for launching, the Gemini 9 astronauts today made extensive preparations for next Tuesday's second attempt at a rendezvous and space walk mission.

Air Force Lt. Col Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan decided to skip a flight rehearsal to devote several hours to study of a revised flight plan for their three-day orbital journey.

Later, they planned to run through flight exercises in a mock spacecraft in the control center.

School Bus Driver's Son Killed by Vehicle

LA PUENTE, Calif. (AP) — The driver of a school bus let her son off near their home and pulled away. The boy was killed Wednesday when he was run over by the bus, police said.

The driver, Dorothy Ann Clairmont, 42, told police she looked in the rearview mirror after she felt the wheel pull over something and saw the child, Thomas, 6, lying on the street.

3 WCH Men Fined $50 for Fighting

Three Washington C. H. residents have been fined in Circleville Municipal Court for fighting in a New Holland cafe.

Cited were Pearly Webb, Gary Webb and Joe Williams. Charges of intoxication and fighting were filed by Everett Tynor of New Holland.

The three men all entered innocent pleas but were ruled guilty by Judge Sterling M. Lamb.

He levied fines of $50 each for the three men.

Logan Bypass Bid Opening Due July 26

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Highway Department plans to open bids July 26 on a 5.3-mile section of the Logan bypass. The $4.4 million section of U. S. 33 in Hocking County will connect an already completed four-lane section which ends at Ohio 180 northwest of the city. The planned section ends at Ohio 93 near the Hocking River. The bypass is south of Logan.

Guyanese Celebrating Their New Independence

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP) — Floodlights lit up the midnight sky Wednesday night and 50,000 Guyanese cheered as the five-colored flag of Guyana went up in place of the Union Jack, signaling independence for another British colony.

The joyous outburst came after a solemn moment in Queen Elizabeth Park when the British flag was lowered in darkness while bands played "God Save the Queen."

A few persons near the press box shouted, "Down! Down for good!"

Then the lights blazed on, and the bands switched to "Green Land of Guyana" as the new national banner was hoisted. Prime Minister Forbes Burnham wept.

Former Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan, Marxist foe of Burnham, appeared at the ceremony and to general surprise embraced his successor.

Jagan told newsmen: "I have come, as I promised, to honor independence."

Jagan and his People's Progressive Party are boycotting all ceremonies aside from the flag raising and the opening of the first independent Parliament. His Chicago-born wife, Janet, refused to attend the ceremony Wednesday night.

Georgetown, which appeared sleepy earlier this week, came alive with thousands jamming the streets, dancing, cheering, and drinking rum.

Steel bands and calypso singers entertained in major night spots. The holiday was expected to run through the weekend and Monday, which is a religious day.

Guyana becomes the 23rd member of the British Commonwealth. The Duke and Duchess of Kent represented the queen at the ceremony in Georgetown.

Boy Slightly Hurt In Hit Skip Mishap

A Circleville youth was injured slightly at 11:25 p. m. Wednesday when he was struck by a hit-skip motorist.

Robert Keaton, 13, of 1238 Turner Drive, told Circleville Police a car brushed against him, knocking him to the pavement.

He stated his wrist was sprained in the mishap. Circleville Patrolmen Larry Pontious investigated.

Havana Said Battling Shortage of Power

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Havana radio broadcast today a request by the government Electric Power Agency that householders use current sparingly in hours of greatest demand.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami, said brief "power interruptions in Havana and other areas result from repairs which are being made in various plants." It said the situation was temporary.

Deaths

MR. CHARLES R. RAMEY
Funeral services will be conducted 2 p. m. Saturday for Mr. Charles R. Ramey, 56, a former Circleville resident.

Mr. Ramey died Tuesday in Cleveland as the result of an industrial accident. He was the son of James and Martha Taylor Ramey.

He is survived by two sons, George of 170 W. High St. and James W. of Route 3; one daughter, Mrs. Betty Fausnaugh of Route 3; and nine grandchildren.

Services will be in the Church of Christ in Christian Union, with the Rev. Adkins officiating. Burial will be in Hiller-Ludwig Cemetery at Route 1, under direction of the Defenbaugh Funeral Home.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 2 p. m. Friday.

Ohio Welfare Protest March Is Scheduled

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rev. Paul Younger said today at least 50 welfare clients are expected to start a march from Cleveland to Columbus June 20 to dramatize demands for improvements in what he termed an inadequate welfare program.

"We expect the size of the group to grow as large as 200" by the time they reach Columbus June 30, the Rev. Mr. Younger said.

The marchers are to average about 15 miles a day, and arrangements are being made wherever possible to have local churches along the route furnish "hospitality" for overnight stops.

"There will be no demonstrations along the way," said the Rev. Mr. Younger, "but they will hold open meetings to explain the problem."

At Columbus, the marchers are to join a rally set by the Ohio Steering Committee for Adequate Welfare for June 30 on the statehouse steps.

"We want to let the state and nation know how inadequate the welfare grants are in the State of Ohio," said the Rev. Mr. Younger, "and to press for the necessary steps to bring the grants up to 100 per cent of current needs."

He said current minimum standards on which Aid to Dependent Children payments are made were set in 1959, adding that government statistics show that living costs have increased eight per cent since then.

While costs have increased, he said, the government continues to provide only 70 per cent of the minimum standard, "based on the bare minimum it cost for a family to live on in 1959."

Sponsors of the protest also want congress to change the matching formula for ADC support payments, which "currently is lower than for any other federal aid category — Aid for Aged, Aid for the Disabled, and Aid for the Blind," the Rev. Mr. Younger declared.

He said under the current formula, the federal government pays the first $22 of the payment loan ADC client, while $34 is paid in the adult programs.

Another aim of the demonstration is to get Congress to change the law to allow ADC mothers to work without having all earnings deducted from their

New Presbyterian Chief Pledges Work for Unity

BOSTON (AP) — The new chief executive of the United Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A. was pledged today to press for Christian unity and for vigorous application of the faith to the problems of modern society.

"We dare not permit our churches to be enclaves of refuge and safety from the world," says William Phelps Thompson, the first layman named to the top leadership of his denomination in this century.

A trim, 5-foot-11 man, with a ready wit and a level gaze, Thompson was elected stated clerk of the 3.3-million-member denomination Wednesday in its first change-over in administration in 15 years.

He is to succeed The Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Baker, one of the nation's leading Protestants, who resigned to become general secretary of the World Council of Churches.

Thompson, 47, a Wichita, Kan., lawyer, told a news conference he intended to pursue policies which, under Dr. Baker, brought the denomination into the front lines of social causes and efforts for Christian reunification.

"Whatever opportunities we have," he said, "will be used to further the unity of the church."

Referring to current talks for a merger of eight Protestant bodies, with a total of 24 million members, he said:

"This probably is the most important thing happening to the church today in this country."

"We're all very thrilled," said Mrs. Thompson, a poised woman who was accompanied by the three Thompson children, Judith, 16, Bill, 14, and Margaret, 11.

Thompson was elected to the closing day of the church's eight-day governing assembly, winning over two clergymen, The Rev. Dr. Hugh Miller of Dover, N.J., and The Rev. Dr. John W. Heister of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Capitalistic Aid Sought

The Russians have proved that they are no slouches when it comes to making rockets, satellites and bombs. But production and quality of their automobiles have never held a candle to the United States and the rest of the free world.

So, what are they doing to remedy the situation? They have called for the assistance of a private company in a capitalistic nation. Fiat of Italy will provide the technical knowhow to build a $320 million auto plant capable of turning out 200 cars a day.

Imagine what Marx, Lenin and Stalin would have to say about this.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

The two youngest of our four boys are twins. They are six years old. One of the twins is outgoing and a "kisser," the other, older by six minutes, is reserved and shy.

My husband insists on dressing them alike. I feel that they are two distinct persons, and should be encouraged to be different from each other.

Isn't that the opinion of child psychologists?

Mrs. F. G., Indiana

Dear Mrs. G.: The healthy development of "look-alike" identical twins depends not only on their similarities, but also on their differences.

Even in the early years, it is sometimes astonishing to find that identical twins can be so different in personality.

Both children have a right to their own distinction, without the burden of similar clothes, similar names, similar toys and similar activities.

Observers find twins charming and captivating and somehow encourage parents to maintain the "twin-ness" of the children. But friends and relatives should try to refrain from typical "comparison small talk."

They are tempted to say, "This one is bigger, that one is smarter, this one is friendlier."

Parents should encourage the development of individual traits and accomplishments so that their twins can grow as individuals without competing with each other, or depending on each other.

Some time before adolescence and adulthood, it is inevitable that the physical and intellectual growth will be different. The early years is a good time to start the separation gently, but firmly, with a look to their future psychological happiness.

My nails are brittle. They crack, break and sometimes I develop infections around them. I have tried large quantities of gelatin, but the condition of my nails does not change.

Do you have any suggestions?

Mrs. G.K., Missouri

Dear Mrs. K.: The first and most important suggestion should be the recommendation of a general physical examination to find the cause for this condition.

The nails, in a remarkable way, reflect many general conditions of the body.

Vitamin deficiencies, injuries, exposure to chemicals, detergents and nail polish, and allergies, may affect the condition of your nails.

The repeated infections around your nails may be caused by breaking the skin during too arduous manicuring. Occasionally local infection is due to some body disorder.

Gelatin is obviously not the answer to all nail problems. After it is tried for a reasonable period of time, other factors must be considered.

Don't use oily nose drops for infants and children.

JACKIE GLEASON is purported to have stepped up to a bar in Miami Beach's Fontainebleau Hotel and demanded a Martini compounded of 24 parts gin, 1 part vermouth. The bartender, startled but game, said, "Coming up. Like a slice of lemon peel twisted in it?" Snapped Gleason, "If I want a lemonade, I'll ask for it."

Henry David Thoreau's "Walden" is now generally recognized as one of the truly great books in American literature, but during Thoreau's lifetime, neither "Thoreau" nor his "A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers" received much public acclaim. In fact, the latter volume, published in 1849, when everybody was reading about the new gold rush in California, never even sold out its first and only edition of one thousand copies! Thoreau eventually bought the sizeable remainder himself. In a letter, Thoreau complained, "I have now a library of nearly nine hundred volumes, over seven hundred of which I wrote myself."

Thoreau's publisher was the still prosperous Boston firm of Houghton Mifflin. The late Robert Linscott, one of that publisher's best editors, remembers the aged head of the subscription book department telling him, "It makes me ashamed to collect money from anyone fool enough to buy that Thoreau's books. He was just a loafer who never did an honest day's work in his whole life. No one in Concord had any use for him except Ralph Waldo Emerson—and HE was a little cracked!"

Champions of Freedom

By John Chamberlain

The Rumanians, for the moment, are the heroes among those who hope to promote some kind of freedom from Moscow for the satellite states of eastern Europe. Nicolae Ceausescu, the Rumanian Communist Party leader, has been quoted as saying it is "anachronistic" to station foreign troops in independent countries and is asking for a revision of the Warsaw Pact which would give the satellites a veto power over the use of any atomic weapons stationed on their territory. This "Rumanian de Gaulism" will probably go as far as Moscow permits it to go, for Rumania, after all, borders on Russia and must reckon that if the Red Army could suppress a revolution in Hungary it could certainly be used to a similar end in Rumania.

The satellites, in general, are watching the Rumanian defiance with a rather hopeful interest. But Hungarians have mixed feelings about the new East European "hero" nation. They have a special gripe about the way the Hungarian ethnic group in Transylvania, now a province of Rumania, has been treated over the last decade. Just as the Soviets are trying to wipe out the cultural and religious identity of the Jewish community inside Russia, so the Rumanian Communists have been doing their best to "Rumanize" 1.7 million Hungarians who happen to live within the present-day borders of Rumania.

The Rumanian "liquidation of the Hungarian question" is pursued by a combination of economic and social means. There has been a forcible transfer of Hungarian teachers, civil servants and other professions into purely Rumanian areas, most of them outside Transylvania. Hungarian refugees, who have been trying to persuade the U.S. House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee to conduct hearings on the mistreatment of minorities in eastern Europe claim to have more than a hundred documented cases in which Hungarian professionals have been moved against their will. Sometimes the transfer is compelled by the simple means of denying a housing license in a Hungarian-speaking district to a Hungarian intellectual.

The Rumanians have also taken decisive measures to discourage the use of the Hungarian language inside the country's borders. Last Autumn, on a trip to Transylvania, Congressman Edward J. Patten said he heard Hungarian spoken only in whispers. In 1957 there were more than 1,100 Hungarian grammar and high schools in Transylvania. These have been wholly abolished. Hungarian sections still exist in Rumanian schools in the purely Hungarian areas of Transylvania, but the government has been slowly choking them by refusing to certify their graduates for acceptance in the universities.

Central planning of the Rumanian economic system is another tool being used against Hungarians who wish to preserve their cultural identity. There was every economic reason for the Rumanians to set up a chemical industry near the natural gas wells in one of the Hungarian provinces of Transylvania. But instead of doing this, the planning board sanctioned chemical plants some 200 miles away in Moldavia, piping the gas across the Carpathian Mountains. The Transylvania Hungarians had to move out of their own communities to take jobs.

What goes on in distant Transylvania may not seem at first glance to be a fit subject for a U. S. House of Representatives investigation. But if the U. S. is to "build bridges" to eastern Europe, it should properly concern itself with what is to be found at the other end of a bridge. The Rumanian government, now posing as the champion of the East European satellites against the oppressive tactics of Moscow, has not been following the Golden Rule when it comes to dealing with its own Hungarian minority. Moreover, it has been violating the Charter of the United Nations, the 1948 Declaration of Human Rights, the 1947 Paris Peace Treaty with the Allied Powers which obtained Transylvania for Rumania, and its own Constitutional guarantee of free cultural and linguistic development of minorities.

Some champions of freedom, the Rumanian Communists!

Dear Editor:

I am a high school senior, who will be graduating June 2, from Circleville High School.

I am in the Distributive Education class. A senior enrolled in this course goes to school in the morning and works in the afternoon.

This year went fast, very fast. I would like to take time to thank everyone for the chance to prove that teenagers can hold a responsible job.

I first thank the school for helping me get my job. I thank Mr. Barrett, my teacher, for helping me through some problems and teaching me.

Most of all I thank my co-workers for giving me this chance to learn some bookkeeping at the First National Bank. I thank Mr. Roy Marshall for the chance to prove myself.

Miss Norma Jean Anderson and Miss Norma Ruth Trout-man were my head instructors. I thank them also. They have taught me more than they will ever know.

I will never forget those with whom I came in contact. Everyone has been just great and I can never thank them enough. They made my future a step closer. Thanks for having faith in me.

Only 2 U.S. Turncoat Gls Still Left in Red China

HONG KONG (AP)—Korean War turncoat Clarence Adams arrived in Hong Kong today, leaving only two of 21 self-exiled former American prisoners of war in Communist China.

Adams, from Memphis, Tenn., crossed the Lowu border bridge 23 miles north of the city with his Chinese wife and their children, Louis, 3, and Della, 4. Nicholas Platt, a U.S. consulate official met them at the border and took them to an undisclosed hotel.

The consulate had been expecting Adams since the Chinese notified the Hong Kong Red Cross he would cross the border May 9. But Adams told newsmen he had not planned to leave China until this week. "I think maybe there was a mistake in the date," he said.

The turncoats still in China are Howard Adams, no relation to Clarence, of Corsicana, Tex., and James Veneris of Hawthorne, Calif. One of the former war prisoners who chose to remain with their captors died in China, two left via Europe and 15 others preceded Adams across the Hong Kong border.

The last was Morris Wills of Fort Ann, N.Y., who crossed last Oct. 19.

Adams said he did not know whether Howard Adams and Veneris were planning to leave China.

"I have been working at the foreign language press," he said. "They are studying at Peking University, and I've had very little contact with them for many months."

Adams said he and his family would fly to the United States "just as soon as our travel documents are ready and my mother sends us the travel money which she wrote she would send as soon as we reached Hong Kong."

A U.S. consulate spokesman said issuance of travel documents for the family could take from one to three weeks.

While Adams talked to Platt, Mrs. Adams, the former Liu Lin-fang, told newsmen in Chinese they had decided to leave China because Adams wanted to see his mother, Mrs. Gladys Peoples of Memphis.

"He has not seen his mother since before he went to war 16 years ago," Mrs. Adams said.

building. Then they forced their way in and threw books, furniture, films and other articles through the doors and windows before setting the building afire.

Ky's regime showed no sign of buckling under the Buddhist pressure or of sending troops to Hue to quell the rebellion there. Riot police in Saigon quickly blocked an attempt by about 20 Buddhists to demonstrate in front of the U.S. embassy, then scattered them with tear gas when they tried to start another demonstration in the central market.

Thousands had marched peacefully earlier today behind the coffin of a Vietnamese army lieutenant killed during the political tension last week, but later about 200 students assembled and marched on the U.S.I.S. building.

Newsmen learned students from Hue University called the U.S. office and warned of the attack.

Several demonstrators lowered the American flag and apparently were preparing to rub it in the dirt when others stopped them.

Two Vietnamese military policemen on duty at the building made no effort to stop the attack. Fire trucks arrived about an hour after the mob. The firemen made no attempt to put out the blaze but only worked to prevent it from spreading to nearby houses.

A U.S. Army major reported he saw Thich Tri Quang, one of the chief leaders of the Buddhist antigovernment movement, telling the demonstrators to stop the destruction.

A mob sacked the building — which also houses the U.S. Public Affairs Office — on Jan. 23, 1965, and burned about half the books of the U.S. library. That demonstration was aimed at ousting the civilian government of Premier Tran Van Huong, who was replaced four days later by Gen. Nguyen Khanh. Now the Buddhist battle cry is for a civilian regime.

News of World in Brief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Walter G. Nord of Oberlin was named "Ohio Small Businessman of the Year" today by the regional office of the U. S. Small Business Administration.

Nord is president of U. S. Automatic Corp. and board chairman of SuperVision Inc. and Nordson Corp. He also is president of the Ohio Mental Health Association.

CLEVELAND (AP)—John Vanatta, former business partner of jeweler Richard S. Richards, was indicted today for first-degree murder in the slaying of Richards.

Vanatta was charged in connection with the death of the 37-year-old Jeweler once before 2½ years ago but was released at that time for lack of evidence.

The Cuyahoga County Grand Jury reopened an investigation into the case this week and heard 14 witnesses Tuesday.

Richards was beaten and strangled. His body was found in the trunk of his car at a bus turnaround in Berea Tct. 7, 1963.

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Definite proposals for legislation to define historical sites and provide funds for their preservation and care will be drafted by a legislative committee studying the matter.

Rep. Clara E. Eiseleborn, R-Montgomery, committee chairman, assured Wednesday that suggested legislation will be among recommendations the group will start drafting at its June 30 meeting.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The official canvass of Ohio's May 3 primary election showed today that 1,357,324 voters went to the polls.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown announced the official figures at the canvass conducted with other officials in his office.

The figures compared with 1,335,797 for the 1962 primary election and 1,770,467 for the 1964 presidential election year primary.

The overall total vote included 679,710 Democratic ballots and 677,614 marked by Republicans for a Democratic edge of 2,096.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"It's the pigeons that violated the law, not me," James A. Schroeder had argued before the jury trying him on a charge of illegally feeding the birds.

But the Municipal Court panel Wednesday found Schroeder, 33, guilty of violating San Francisco's new antipigeon-feeding ordinance. He'll be sentenced later.

Schroeder, a wildlife enthusiast, had said that he was merely feeding some blackbirds when a bunch of pushy pigeons shouldered through the chowline and helped themselves.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—Australian Sen. James P. Trmone, a member of the opposition Labor party, said today U.S. citizens believe they have been sold a pup on Viet Nam.

On his way home after a month in the United States, Ormonde said he met no one in America who favored the U.S. commitment in Viet Nam.

The people were not necessarily against President Johnson, he said, but were sorry for his predicament and saw no morality in the war.

Ormonde said the consensus was that Americans should not be taxed to the eyes to fight other people's wars.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate Foreign Relations Committee member has called for a summit meeting between President Johnson and French President Charles de Gaulle to help melt "a diplomatic glacier" he said separates the two countries.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said "if a summit meeting between the two presidents is not now feasible," then Johnson should send a personal representative to Paris "to reopen and develop a dialogue to the point where a summit meeting... would seem likely to bear fruit."

SAFETY DISPLAY — This is one of several reminders on cautions in the home displayed at Wednesday's Safety Tea. The event, sponsored by the local Du Pont plant, was attended by wives and mothers of company employees and guests. Dr. E. V. Turner, assistant chief of staff at Children's Hospital in Columbus, was guest speaker.

Accent Placed on Safety At Du Pont Sponsored Tea

A Safety Tea, sponsored here Wednesday by the local Du Pont plant, drew enthusiastic response from a large group of guests.

The Tea, conducted at the Fairgrounds 4-H and Grange Building, was sponsored for the benefit of wives and mothers of Du Pont employees. Emphasis was placed on promoting safety in the home.

Charles P. Brackett, safety official at Du Pont, gave the welcome address. He also introduced Mrs. E. R. Bennett, manager of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. Karel Marshall, society editor of The Circleville Herald.

H. W. Shockley described safety philosophy as practiced at the local Du Pont plant.

Dr. E. V. Turner, guest speaker, lectured on the many facets of child safety.

Refreshments were served while Brackett awarded door prizes and flowers. Hot pads were presented to wives who did not attend last year's tea.

Brackett presented a demonstration on how to use a fire extinguisher and pointed out the safety displays made by the Du Pont employees.

Fire extinguishers were presented to the guests as a climax of the session.

The Kinderfolk of St. Joseph's School, under the direction of Mrs. Montovan, entertained with several songs.

Assorted Injuries On Berger List

Five emergency patients were treated for various injuries at Berger Hospital Wednesday. All were released.

Only 2 U.S. Turncoat Gls Still Left in Red China

HONG KONG (AP)—Korean War turncoat Clarence Adams arrived in Hong Kong today, leaving only two of 21 self-exiled former American prisoners of war in Communist China.

Adams, from Memphis, Tenn., crossed the Lowu border bridge 23 miles north of the city with his Chinese wife and their children, Louis, 3, and Della, 4. Nicholas Platt, a U.S. consulate official met them at the border and took them to an undisclosed hotel.

The consulate had been expecting Adams since the Chinese notified the Hong Kong Red Cross he would cross the border May 9. But Adams told newsmen he had not planned to leave China until this week.

Clothing Center, 4-H Club On Church Group Agenda

A report on the local Clothing Center and the announcement that a 4-H Club has been organized in the Lowery Lane area were on the agenda when the Circleville Council of Church Women met in the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. J. B. Stout, chairman, opened the meeting with a short devotional period.

Mrs. M. D. Lorentz, Clothing Center chairman, reported that 44 families were served on May 4. It was decided the Center will be open for distribution on June 1 and during the summer. The remaining clothing will be evaluated and resorted and all undesirable material disposed of.

There will be no distribution day in July, nor on August 3 which would be the regular day.

However, the room will be open Aug. 24 from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. After this date, the regular schedule of distribution on the first Wednesday afternoon of each month will be resumed.

Mrs. Stout announced the 4-H club at Lowery Lane was organized through the efforts of Mrs. Judy Chapman of the Extension office.

Mrs. Laurence Priest asked for support of a project being carried on presently by St. Ann's Guild of the Episcopal Church, and the Sertoma Club. They are endeavoring to provide a schedule of recreational activities for the children at the Pickaway County Home. Money is not needed. But time and interest in the children is, Mrs. Priest said.

There will be no summer meetings of the Council. The next session will be 8 p. m. Sept. 12 in the Lutheran Church lounge.

Mrs. Henry Walters offered prayer at the conclusion of the meeting. Those present were taken on a tour of the new Educational Building at the Presbyterian church.

Dance Recital Scheduled For Friday

Students of Mrs. Maynard Eaton, 355 Markley Road, will present a dance recital, "The Mother Goose Ballet," 7:30 p. m. Friday at the Fairgrounds 4-H and Grange Building.

AAUW Installs Officers at Dinner Meeting

A dinner meeting and installation of officers was held by the Circleville Branch AAUW at the Pickaway Arms.

Mrs. Harry Kern and her hostess committee completed arrangements for the dinner and carried out a spring floral theme in their decorations. The programs were provided by Mrs. Keith Smith, Mrs. Wayne Smith and Miss Carolyn Fudge.

The officers who will serve for the 1966-1967 term are: president, Mrs. Richard Fisher; vice president of program development, Mrs. C. Thomas Sackinger; vice president of membership, Mrs. J. L. Chilcote; recording secretary, Mrs. John Barry; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Winship Story; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Alice Greenwood.

The newly appointed chairmen includes: Mrs. Robert Rustin, Program Implementation Chairman; Mrs. Nicholas Apostolakis, World Problems Area Representative; Mrs. Thomas Cavanaugh, Area Representative in Education; Mrs. Kent Carpenter, Fellowships Chairman; Mrs. David Gillespie, College Faculty Program Chairman.

Those in the Drama Group, who provided the entertainment for the evening are Mrs. Charles Hosterman, Mrs. J. Austin Dowden, Mrs. J. G. Scott, Mrs. Nicholas Apostolakis, Mrs. James Baehr, Mrs. Dale C. Edwards.

ducted by Mrs. H. O. Caldwell. Mrs. B. T. Hedges led in repeating the Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag, followed by the Lord's Prayer.

Business reports were given by the secretary, Mrs. J.B. Work. The treasurer's report was by Mrs. W. F. Gillespie. It noted that membership dues are to be sent to Mrs. Gillespie for 1966. It was voted to cancel club meetings during the vacation months of June, July, August and to resume with an opening meeting in September at New Holland. Letters were read from absent members.

Mr. Everett R. Beers, elected Republican candidate for the Ohio Legislature, was the honor guest and spoke briefly before presenting his colored slides, by Mrs. Caldwell, who presented the second showing of her African Safari pictures.

The tour extended to the south and included views of the Crown Gold Mine, Devil's Peak, Zulu Land and Kruger Game Reserve.

The hostesses were Mrs. Eugene P. Hanson, chairman; Miss Maggie E. Mavis, Mrs. Fred K. Mavis and Mrs. Charles Pugsley.

Weekly Food Review

NEW YORK (AP) — The ingredients for summer picnics are mounting in the food markets for the Memorial Day weekend. There are chickens, hams, eggs, watermelons.

Broilers are featured as a best buy in most areas. Beef is more plentiful. Egg prices have been dropping for weeks. Tons of watermelons have moved to market, along with increasing supplies of fresh peaches and cherries.

Heavy rains damaged the strawberry crop in Louisiana and delayed the harvest in Tennessee. Losses to the crop in northern and eastern Kentucky were heavy.

The rains also cut the tomato crops in Texas and Indiana.

There have been blight problems with pears in California, and spotty damage to the sweet cherry crop in the Yakima Valley of Washington.

The result has been lagging supplies of produce in many areas.

Tuna fish, catsup, tomato sauce, stewed tomatoes and tomato juice prices may be headed lower on summer promotions, as canners clean out their supplies.

Supplies of canned red salmon are almost four times as large as a year ago, resulting in lower prices.

Wigs Provide Extra Income For Women

LISBON (AP) — Portuguese women have just discovered an extra source of income — their hair.

All over Portugal, there is a strong demand for locks and curls.

The hair goes to four Lisbon stores specialized in wigs manufacturing. These wigs may cost from one to two thousand escudos ($35 to $70). A man's natural hair wig isn't worth more than 300 escudos ($10).

Young women with long manes strolling in Lisbon streets frequently report being contacted by hair buyers.

Manufacturers despair at only producing over 50 wigs per month, which they state is a short output, in face of a rising demand. Requests pour in, not only from Portugal, but also from other countries suffering from hair shortage.

"The hair of Latin women is much appreciated for its resistance," a manufacturer says.

Clothing Center, 4-H Club On Church Group Agenda

A report on the local Clothing Center and the announcement that a 4-H Club has been organized in the Lowery Lane area were on the agenda when the Circleville Council of Church Women met in the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. J. B. Stout, chairman, opened the meeting with a short devotional period.

Mrs. M. D. Lorentz, Clothing Center chairman, reported that 44 families were served on May 4. It was decided the Center will be open for distribution on June 1 and during the summer. The remaining clothing will be evaluated and resorted and all undesirable material disposed of.

There will be no distribution day in July, nor on August 3 which would be the regular day.

However, the room will be open Aug. 24 from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. After this date, the regular schedule of distribution on the first Wednesday afternoon of each month will be resumed.

Mrs. Stout announced the 4-H club at Lowery Lane was organized through the efforts of Mrs. Judy Chapman of the Extension office.

Mrs. Laurence Priest asked for support of a project being carried on presently by St. Ann's Guild of the Episcopal Church, and the Sertoma Club. They are endeavoring to provide a schedule of recreational activities for the children at the Pickaway County Home. Money is not needed. But time and interest in the children is, Mrs. Priest said.

There will be no summer meetings of the Council. The next session will be 8 p. m. Sept. 12 in the Lutheran Church lounge.

Mrs. Henry Walters offered prayer at the conclusion of the meeting. Those present were taken on a tour of the new Educational Building at the Presbyterian church.

Students of Mrs. Maynard Eaton, 355 Markley Road, will present a dance recital, "The Mother Goose Ballet," 7:30 p. m. Friday at the Fairgrounds 4-H and Grange Building.

Participating will be: "Fairies" — Debbie McKelvey, Debbie Dumm, Cynthia Palm, Jane Rogers and Margaret Stallings; "Little Bo Peep" — Ann Bowser, Lee Anne Edsel, Linda Fisher, Tracy Fraas, Sarah Luna, Kathy O'Hara, Sherrie and Stephanie Weikert and Anne Wilson; "Jacks and Jills" — Alyse Bergen, Dee Anne Clark, Kathy Fisher, Melissa Griffith, Nancy Hedges, Susan Hill, Crystal Metzger, Lora Thomas, Colleen Wherthey and Kimberly White; "Mary and Her Little Lambs" — "Mary", Janey Rogers (Mary) "Lambs", Patrice Montavon, Nina Sanguily, Amy Smith, Jana Smith, Julia Smith, Lisa Tague and Kathy Whitmore (lambs); "Blackbirds" — Janey Elsea, Karen Keatley, Sally McDaniel, Nancy Morgan, Susan Scott, Kelly Spence, Coleen Thomas and Julie Wilson; "Butterflies" — Pamela Hill, Leigh Ann Hritz, Lois McCoy, Cheryl Morgan, Lori Sue Owen, Carla Rihl and Lynne Wilson.

Living Plants Decorate Home

By ELEANOR ROSS

As the sun rides higher in the sky, it sets many a homemaker to thinking about perk-up the house for spring.

One way — and it's a method we're addicted to—is using living plants to achieve many interesting decorative touches. And it surely is inexpensive and easy.

Paint a wrought iron or wicker stand white, put it on casters, and there you have a handsome rolling cart to display flowering plants.

Take advantage of colorful geraniums. Mix in a few of the new compact azaleas—try red and pink combinations. Arrange them artistically on the stand and there you have a portable garden in a delightful color combination of red clay pots, red and pink blossoms, green foliage and white cart.

If the kitchen is small and counter space at a premium, use natural wicker or straw-hanging baskets filled with clay-potted ferns or trailing ivy to supply a cheering touch of green. Suspended from wall brackets, they do not interfere with work areas.

If you are the fortunate possessor of the modern kitchen complete with laundry room, don't waste all that wonderful humidity. Laundry rooms are "naturals" for container gardens. Try one or two of the large foliage plants such as philodendron or schefflera and some of the smaller ferns. And don't forget saucers to match the pots.

Bay or floor-to-ceiling windows provide dramatic backdrops for house plants.

To complement a bay window curtained in white, provide a chic contrast by filling the space between floor and window with foliage plants. Line a long tray with pebbles and place your potted plants and matching saucers along the tray to form an indoor garden nook.

To accompany ferns and philodendrons, try some of the larger potted palms. To provide a touch of color, brightly speckled caladiums are attractive.

At the base of floor-to-ceiling windows, place a row of flowering plants to lend a note of colorful interest.

The marigolds or geraniums used during the summer months continue this motif on the patio.

Add a decorative note by converting an old dry sink into a portable planter. Use a pine or maple dry sink, lined with aluminum or copper, and then "pave" it with a layer of gravel. This will make an excellent planter for your collection of flowering and foliage plants.

The growing greenery and flower-blooming plants provide a constantly changing motif that is always of the highest taste and interest.

Your sponge cake texture too coarse? You may have under-mixed the batter. On the other hand, too compact a texture often means that the batter was over mixed. Fold in the flour with a down-and-up motion of the spatula to hold in the air bubbles.

Traditional Symbol of Sympathy

One of Man's most beautiful and enduring customs has been to express sympathy to the bereaved through flowers. Sending flowers is only natural because through their very fragrance and beauty they breathe hope. Their gentle presence relieves doubt and fear. When you want to express sympathy, take the way that is natural, correct and kind...

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Happiness Not Same for All

DEAR ABBY: What is wrong with a woman who will let a man walk all over her? My neighbor has married the same man TWICE. They are divorced now, and like a fool, she is considering marrying him again. They don't have any children to stay together for. She doesn't need a man to support her as she makes more than he does.

He treats her like dirt. If you can tell me what she needs this good for nothing, arrogant, two-timer for, you are a genius.

ONE SHE CRIES ON

"HE SEES ME, he sees me not" summarizes this Samuel Robert creation in New York. It is of alternating opaque and transparent materials. The pants are worn over red panty-hose, and the top is worn over just sun tan.

DEAR ONE: I can't tell you, but you can take my word for it, she needs him for something. Even if it's only to "punish" her. To each his own. Some people's idea of happiness is having something to "suffer" for. It's a pathological quirk.

DEAR ABBY: I haven't a love problem, but I want to know the answer to something that has been bothering me. My son recently married a woman who was married before and had a child by her first husband. My son legally adopted the little girl. Now that child isn't really my granddaughter, is she?

She already has two grandmothers as her mother's mother is still living and so is her real father's mother. So if she already has two grandmothers, where do I fit in? I don't get it. WHAT AM I?

DEAR WHAT: Then your son adopted the child, he became a father, and you became a grandmother.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a person who is constantly correcting others in words and their use? All involved in this situation are adults.

CORRECTED

DEAR CORRECTED: The constant corrector is showing his ignorance. It is infinitely more important to be KIND than correct.

Poach canned pear in a little of their syrup in a skillet; add lots of grated lemon rind. Drain and garnish the pear cavities with sprigs of parley (stems cut off); serve with roast leg of lamb for a spring-time Sunday dinner.

Model Mauled by Lion Poses Again, but Alone

NEW YORK (AP)—A model, who last month was mauled by a lion while posing with the animal, posed again Tuesday — alone.

Nell Theobald, 21, sat in a wheelchair as she left a hospital where she underwent plastic surgery on her left leg.

Youngstown Boy, 13, Dies Following Fight

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — James Thompson, 13, of Youngstown died Wednesday of injuries received Tuesday in a fight. The youth died following an operation for a blood clot on the brain.

Police reported James' mother said the youth and his brother Tom, got into an argument with another boy and a fight followed. Police said James apparently was hit on the head with a baseball bat.

DeHavilland Film Banned By Staid British Censor

PARIS (AP) — "Imagine dear, sweet Melanie banned in Britain!" exclaimed Olivia de Havilland in mock horror.

Melanie, of course, was the saccharine belle of "Gone With the Wind," which Miss de Havilland played with remarkable skill in 1939.

In more recent times she appeared in "Lady in a Cage," a Gothic tale of such horror that the British censor refused to allow it to be shown in the isles. The British are more alarmed by violence than by sex in films; the reverse is true in America.

"I have absolutely no regrets about doing the picture," said Olivia. "I thought it was a testament against senseless violence, and I was happy that the French critics agreed. In fact, they raved so much about it that the film was booked into the London Film Festival; it will apparently be the only time "Lady in a Cage" will play in England."

The actress was commenting over tea in her house on Rue de Benouville near the heart of Paris. She fits gracefully into the Parisian life, although she was born in Tokyo of English parents and spent most of her girlhood and acting career in America.

She moved to Paris nine years ago, when she married magazine editor Pierre Gallante. The marriage appears to have hit and impasse, but she continues her residence here.

It has been more than a year since Olivia made her last film.

If you like to grease baking pans with butter, clarify the butter and keep it tightly covered in the refrigerator to have on hand for this use. Though clarification, you gain a salt-free "oil" that tends to prevent baked products from sticking — and of course the clarified butter gives good flavor to the crusts of cookies, cakes and breads.

She has averaged a film a year in recent times.

"And now the time is getting critical," she said. "I've started working on my needlepoint again, and I'm painting two canvases. I battle about the house so that everyone wishes I would go back to work and return refreshed."

Film making has been such a habit to the two-time Academy Award winner that she can't live for long without it.

She remains selective. Last year she declined a return to Warners for "Never Too Late," figuring it wouldn't be right for her image.

If you are the fortunate pos-sessor of the modern kitchen complete with laundry room, don't waste all that wonderful humidity. Laundry rooms are "naturals" for container gar-dens. Try one or two of the large foliage plants such as philodendron or schefflera and some of the smaller ferns. And don't forget saucers to match the pots.

Bay or floor-to-ceiling win-dows provide dramatic back-drops for house plants.

To complement a bay window curtained in white, provide a chic contrast by filling the space between floor and win-dow with foliage plants. Line a long tray with pebbles and place your potted plants and match-ing saucers along the tray to form an indoor garden nook.

To accompany ferns and philodendrons, try some of the larger potted palms. To provide a touch of color, brightly spec-kled caladiums are attractive.

At the base of floor-to-ceiling windows, place a row of flower-ing plants to lend a note of col-orous interest.

The marigolds or geraniums used during the summer months continue this motif on the pa-tio.

Add a decorative note by con-verting an old dry sink into a portable planter. Use a pine or maple dry sink, lined with alu-minum or copper, and then "pave" it with a layer of gravel. This will make an excellent planter for your collection of flowering and foliage plants.

Your sponge cake texture too coarse? You may have under-mixed the batter. On the other hand, too compact a texture of-ten means that the batter was over mixed. Fold in the flour with a down-and-up motion of the spatula to hold in the air bubbles.

Traditional Symbol of Sympathy

One of Man's most beautiful and enduring customs has been to ex-press sympathy to the bereaved through flowers. Sending flowers is only natural because through their very fragrance and beauty they breathe hope. Their gentle presence relieves doubt and fear. When you want to express sym-pathy, take the way that is nat-ural, correct and kind...

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Happiness Not Same for All

DEAR ABBY: What is wrong with a woman who will let a man walk all over her? My neighbor has married the same man TWICE. They are divorced now, and like a fool, she is considering marrying him again. They don't have any children to stay together for. She doesn't need a man to sup-port her as she makes more than he does.

He treats her like dirt. If you can tell me what she needs this good for nothing, arrogant, two-timer for, you are a gen-ius.

ONE SHE CRIES ON

"HE SEES ME, he sees me not" summarizes this Sam-uel Robert creation in New York. It is of alternating opaque and transparent ma-terials. The pants are worn over red panty-nose, and the top is worn over just sun tan.

DEAR ONE: I can't tell you, but you can take my word for it, she needs him for some-thing. Even if it's only to "punish" her. To each his own. Some people's idea of happi-ness is having something to "suffer" for. It's a pathological quirk.

DEAR ABBY: I haven't a love problem, but I want to know the answer to something that has been bothering me. My son recently married a woman who was married before and had a child by her first husband. My son legally adopt-ed the little girl. Now that child isn't really my grand-daughter, is she?

She already has two grand-mothers as her mother's moth-er is still living and so is her real father's mother. So if she already has two grandmothers, where do I fit in? I don't get it.

WHAT AM I?

DEAR WHAT: Then your son adopted the child, he be-came a father, and you became a grandmother.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a person who is con-stantly correcting others in words and their use? All in-volved in this situation are adults.

CORRECTED

DEAR CORRECTED: The constant corrector is showing his ignorance. It is infinitely more important to be KIND than correct.

Poach canned pear in a lit-tle of their syrup in a skillet; add lots of grated lemon rind. Drain and garnish the pear cav-ities with sprigs of parley (stems cut off); serve with roast leg of lamb for a spring-time Sunday dinner.

Model Mauled by Lion Poses Again, but Alone

NEW YORK (AP)—A model, who last month was mauled by a lion while posing with the ani-mal, posed again Tuesday — alone.

Nell Theobald, 21, sat in a wheelchair as she left a hospital where she underwent plastic surgery on her left leg.

The lion attacked Miss Theo-bald April 8 during a publicity stunt at the National Auto Show.

Youngstown Boy, 13, Dies Following Fight

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — James Thompson, 13, of Youngs-town died Wednesday of injuries received Tuesday in a fight. The youth died following an operation for a blood clot on the brain.

Police reported James' moth-er said the youth and his broth-er Tom, got into an argument with another boy and a fight followed. Police said James ap-parently was hit on the head with a baseball bat.

DeHavilland Film Banned By Staid British Censor

PARIS (AP) — "Imagine dear, sweet Melanie banned in Britain!" exclaimed Olivia de Havilland in mock horror.

Melanie, of course, was the saccharine belle of "Gone With the Wind," which Miss de Havil-land played with remarkable skill in 1939.

In more recent times she ap-peared in "Lady in a Cage," a Gothic tale of such horror that the British censor refused to allow it to be shown in the isles. The British are more alarmed by violence than by sex in films; the reverse is true in America.

"I have absolutely no regrets about doing the picture," said Olivia. "I thought it was a testa-ment against senseless violence.

Deceased
Notice is hereby given that The-resa M. Carrell whose Post Office address is 1044 High Street, Har-risburg, Ohio has been duly ap-pointed Administratrix with the Will annexed of the Estate of Wil-liam L. Mason late of Pickaway County, Ohio, deceased.

and I was happy that the French critics agreed. In fact, they raved so much about it that the film was booked into the London Film Festival; it will apparently be the only time "Lady in a Cage" will play in Engand."

The actress was commenting over tea in her house on Rue de Benouville near the heart of Paris. She fits gracefully into the Parisian lie, although she was born in Tokyo of English parents and spent most of her girlhood and acting career in America.

She moved to Paris nine years ago, when she married maga-zine editor Pierre Gallante. The marriage appears to have hit and impasse, but she continues her residence here.

It has been more than a year since Oliva made her last film.

If you like to grease baking pans with butter, clarify the butter and keep it tightly cov-ered in the refrigerator to have on hand for this use. Though clarification, you gain a salt-free "oil" that tends to prevent baked products from sticking — and of course the clarified but-ter gives good flavor to the crusts of cookies, cakes and breads.

She has averaged a film a year in recent times.

"And now the time is getting critical," she said. "I've started working on my needlepoint again, and I'm painting two canvases. I battle about the house so that everyone wishes I would go back to work and re-turn refreshed."

Film making has been such a habit to the two-time Academy Award winner that she can't live for long without it.

She remains selective. Last year she declined a return to Warners for "Never Too Late," figuring it wouldn't be right for her image.

Hard Goods Buying Seen Holding Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — American consumers intend to buy almost as many cars through next April as during the past year, and more household appliances, the Census Bureau said today.

A survey of consumer intentions was conducted the week of April 17 before the May slump in automobile sales. The sample included about 16,000 representative households.

The bureau cautioned that information on intentions to buy can be useful in forecasting purchases but does not provide any actual number, or percentage, of households that eventually will purchase these items.

The proportion of households reporting intentions in April to buy a new or used car within 12 months was 18.7 per cent compared with 18.8 per cent during the April 1965 survey.

Households reporting an intention to buy major appliances rose from 17.4 per cent in April 1965 to 18.8 per cent last month, the bureau said.

Views on Television — Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Five and a half years ago Betty Furness deliberately closed the door on a successful and highly profitable career as television's first and still most famous spokeswoman. She wanted to go back to her original choices of career: performer and commentator.

At that time she gave herself two years to make the transition, estimating it would take the public and casting directors that long to forget the face and figure they had seen so often, opening and closing refrigerator doors and crisply demonstrating household appliances.

"Well," she said Wednesday, "I haven't made it yet. It's okay in New York because I had a television show doing something quite different for a time on a local station. But if I get out of town there's always somebody who grins and says, 'Oh, I'll never in my life forget the time you couldn't get the refrigerator door to open.'"

Miss Furness is so discouraged about this association with ice boxes she no longer bothers to explain she wasn't the woman who struggled with the recalcitrant refrigerator on a live television show. Her ordeal came one night when she couldn't get the door of the duct compartment of a vacuum cleaner to open.

Always a woman with an interest in high style, Betty decided if she couldn't get people to forget the old image, she would change it. Today, Miss Furness' hair once worn up-swept and in a rather elaborate arrangement, is a sleek short cut. Her clothes are on the casual side.

"The elegant look is out now anyway, and both clothes and hair are simple," she said. "So today I look completely different than I did in the old days. Even people I've known for years don't recognize me immediately. No use. That old image is still the big problem. People — particularly people in television and advertising — still say, 'Oh, no, you couldn't do that — too much identification with Westinghouse and refrigerators.'"

Miss Furness yearns to get back into network television with a half-hour daily show designed for "intelligent women and not one of those it'sy poo things men seem to think women like."

Until that opportunity comes along, Betty keeps herself busy doing things she enjoys even if she isn't achieving her heart's desire. She has a daily radio program, "Ask Betty Furness" on the CBS network during which she summons experts on the show to answer assorted queries submitted by listeners.

Soon she will start taping a series for the National Educational Television Network called "Living for the 60s," which ex-mement opportunities and hobbies for older people.

She is a volunteer worker for VISTA, the domestic version of the Peace Corps, and has flown all over the country — 16 cities since January — doing radio, television and newspaper interviews to help recruiting drives.

Today is Thursday, May 26, the 146th day of 1966. There are 219 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1868, the first and only impeachment by Congress of a president, Andrew Johnson was held. Johnson was acquitted by a single vote.

On this date
In 1790, Tennessee was organized as a territory.

In 1864, the Territory of Montana was organized.

In 1865, the Civil War ended. In 1942, a 20-year treaty of alliance was signed by Great Britain and the Soviet Union.

In 1946, normal service was restored on railroads after a nationwide strike that ended as the government ended its control of the lines.

Ten years ago — A special Senate committee on air power released testimony by Gen. Curtis LeMay, chief of the Strategic Air Command, who had told the subcommittee that it was his guess that by 1959 Russia could destroy the United States with a surprise attack.

Five years ago — The United Nations Command and a military junta that had staged a coup d'etat in South Korea reached agreement to return South Korean troops used in the coup to U.N. command.

One year ago — Six-hundred U.S. Marines were replaced in the strife-torn Dominican Republic by more than 600 policemen from Costa Rica, Nicaragua and El Salvador.

Man Wounded by Gunman Still Partially Paralyzed

COLUMBUS, O. (AP) — Raymond Sigler is a man who may have the face of a ruthless killer locked in his memory.

The wounded service station attendant, like four other Columbus area residents, met an executioner-style gunman.

But unlike the others, he lived to tell about it.

Sigler, 49 and graying, quietly sits in his small apartment on the outskirts of Columbus and intently follows the deadly trail of the compulsive killer.

"I'm sure as anything, he thought I was dead when he left," Sigler says, recuperating at his home.

Sigler is slowly recovering from a brutal attack and still carries two bullets fired into his jaw and his back last Sept. 3 at a service station.

After the shooting, he was paralyzed about a month, then spent another six months flat on his back.

crippled before the robbery-shooting.

Now his right arm is stiff, his fingers drawn in a cramped fist. He is walking some now, trying to build up his strength.

Sigler's was the first of five unsolved executioner-type shootings in the Columbus area.

Bach Honored By Landmark

Carl Bach, 369 Northridge Road, was one of 75 Landmark employees honored for long service Wednesday night in Columbus.

Bach received a mantle clock for 15 years with Landmark.

Husbands and wives of honored guests also attended the Service Award Dinner, conducted in the diningroom of the Nationwide Insurance building.

Then on Nov. 11 Claude Quesenberry, also a service station attendant, was shot and killed in the early morning hours near West Jefferson.

Ballistics experts say the same .25 caliber weapon was used in the slayings of Quesenberry and Scowden and the slaying this week of Loren Bollinger, an Ohio State University Professor.

Mrs. Lisa Davenport, blonde Upper Arlington housewife, was the fourth murder victim.

It is uncertain if Sigler was a victim of the same gunman. Bullets cannot be removed from his body, but police theorize he was. The shooting of Mrs. Davenport has not been traced to the same gun.

Sigler believes the only common denominator of all the victims was their fateful date with a male gunman.

"I'm not bitter. . . what's going to happen is going to happen," Sigler said of his brush with death.

After all this, he plans to go back to work at the station as soon as he is able, but this time will wear a gun.

"I will get off a few bullets the next time," he vowed.

crippled before the robbery-shooting.

Now his right arm is stiff, his fingers drawn in a cramped fist. He is walking some now, trying to build up his strength.

Sigler's was the first of five unsolved executioner-type shootings in the Columbus area.

Bach Honored By Landmark

Carl Bach, 369 Northridge Road, was one of 75 Landmark employees honored for long service Wednesday night in Columbus.

Bach received a mantle clock for 15 years with Landmark.

Husbands and wives of honored guests also attended the Service Award Dinner, conducted in the diningroom of the Nationwide Insurance building.

Then on Nov. 11 Claude Quesenberry, also a service station attendant, was shot and killed in the early morning hours near West Jefferson.

Ballistics experts say the same .25 caliber weapon was used in the slayings of Quesenberry and Scowden and the slaying this week of Loren Bollinger, an Ohio State University Professor.

Mrs. Lisa Davenport, blonde Upper Arlington housewife, was the fourth murder victim.

It is uncertain if Sigler was a victim of the same gunman bullets cannot be removed from his body, but police theorize he was. The shooting of Mrs. Davenport has not been traced to the same gun.

Sigler believes the only common denominator of all the victims was their fateful date with a male gunman.

"I'm not bitter. . . what's going to happen is going to happen," Sigler said of his brush with death.

After all this, he plans to go back to work at the station as soon as he is able, but this time will wear a gun.

"I will get off a few bullets the next time," he vowed.

LBJ Aware His Popularity Dips

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is keenly aware that the high cost of living and the Viet Nam war are cutting into his administration's popularity as measured by public opinion polls.

In reaction to the polls and other signs, the administration has made several moves to try to show that the rise in living costs has been much lower than in other industrialized nations and that there are grounds for hope that civil strife in South Viet Nam can be composed and a degree of unity attained.

After his latest survey this week, pollster Louis Harris said that the American public's rating of the way Johnson does his job has fallen to the lowest point of his 2½ years in the White House.

Only 55 per cent now think he is doing an excellent or good job, Harris reported. This is a decline of 7 percentage points from two months ago and 12 points from January.

But Johnson's rating in this poll is still above the low points of the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations.

A Gallup Poll released Wednesday night reported that a test for the presidency between Johnson and Republican Richard M. Nixon would be closer now than eight months ago.

The poll said 54 per cent of those queried replied they would like to see Johnson win if the election was held today, while 36 per cent picked Nixon and 10 per cent were undecided. Last September, a similar poll listed Johnson with 61 per cent, Nixon with 35 per cent and had 4 per cent undecided. No other candidates were listed in these polls.

Another recent Gallup Poll posed the question: Should the United States withdraw their troops if the South Vietnamese begin fighting among themselves in a big way? The polling organization said 54 per cent of Americans would favor withdrawal in that event, and only 28 per cent favored continuing to help South Viet Nam.

At a news conference last Saturday, the President was asked: "How you regard some of the very recent polls that show considerable public dissatisfaction over both Viet Nam and the economic situation as to inflation?"

He replied that he believes there is somewhat more concern about higher prices now.

As for dissatisfaction with the situation in Viet Nam, he said that he himself is "leading the parade" of those who want to get out.

JW Convention Slated in June

Wayne Fetherolf, presiding minister of the Circleville Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, announced today that seven families are planning to attend the five-day Christian assembly that will be held in Toronto, Ontario at the Canadian National Exhibition Grandstand from June 22 through 26.

Fetherolf stated that the convention was being planned by the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society for Jehovah's witnesses and is one of 13 being held in the United States and Canada within a two-month period. Upwards of 50,000 from six provinces of Canada and 28 of the United States, as well as England, Central Africa and India are expected to attend the Toronto meet.

Similar conventions will also be held in Central and South America later in the year.

"Conventions of Jehovah's Witnesses are family affairs," Fetherolf said. "The reason for this is that whole families attend as a unit and the program is also planned with all members of the family in mind. Bible instruction is given to all regardless of age or sex," he continued.

Highway Gear To Be Auctioned

A public auction of used highway department equipment is scheduled for 10:30 a. m. June 4 at Division No. 6 garage in Delaware.

Director P. E. Masheter said 33 passenger cars, 19 pickup trucks, 22 dump trucks, tractors and other miscellaneous equipment will be sold. Automobiles range from 1957 to 1961 models.

Equipment can be inspected after 8 a. m. on sale day at the garage.

Fledgling Pilot Killed During Solo Flight

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Harold Jones Jr., 36, Youngstown was killed late Wednesday when his single-engine airplane crashed as he tried to land at Youngstown Executive Airport.

Mahoning County sheriff's deputies said Jones was completing his last solo flight before receiving his pilot's license when a wing struck a tree as the plane approached the runway.

Southern Baptist Head 'Distressed' by Racism

DETROIT (AP) — Youthful looking Dr. H. Franklin Paschall, new president of the Southern Baptist Convention, has definite ideas about the future of religion in this country.

He outlined many of them at a news conference Wednesday after his election as head of the nation's largest Protestant denomination.

The 44-year-old Paschall fielded nearly 50 questions ranging from the Negro's part in the Southern Baptist church to Paschall's views on separation of church and state.

Nearly half of the questions dealt with the racial issue. The new convention head commented, "I have been distressed over the racial problem, distressed on both sides in the struggle."

He said the federal government had provided laws governing integration and equality and added:

"We have the laws now and if Christian leaders can instill the proper attitude in people, we will have significant progress."

Dr. Paschall discussed the ecumenical movement briefly. An hour earlier, two Southern Baptist Convention delegates (messengers) had disclosed the Baptist church was considering holding interfaith talks with Roman Catholics.

"I don't think it is a good idea for Baptists to become part of an ecumenical movement, organically or spiritually," he said. He also said a federated church is not the answer to problems of Christianity.

Dr. Paschall said some recent ecumenical talks among other churches had convinced him that while church leaders might be for the idea it had not gone over very well with the church membership.

"We do not want to make an effort to become a counterpart of Rome...I would not like that," he said.

Dr. Paschall told another questioner only 4,000 of the SBC's 10.7 million members are Negroes, but he said all were welcome.

Fenstermaker Elected To Fraternity Post

Eric B. Fenstermaker, son of Dr. and Mrs. Paul E. Fenstermaker, Williamsport, has been elected vice president of Pi Kappa Phi (Country Club) fraternity at Otterbein College in Westerville.

Fenstermaker is a sophomore history and government major at Otterbein, a coeducational college of approximately 1400 enrollment affiliated with the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Always an Answer

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Larry Boeck was trying to persuade his 4-year-old daughter, Peggy, to go to bed. She objected, explaining she was afraid to go upstairs alone.

Trying the flattery angle, Boeck said: "Why, Peggy, everybody says what a pretty girl you are and how smart you are."

"That's right, Daddy," the girl replied, "but I'm not brave."

Congo Farm Symbolic of Casual, Easy-Going Life in Rural Ohio

For casual, relaxed, take-it-easy outdoor - living the Carl Smiths of Congo Farm on Route 159 just half a mile from Kingston take the cake.

Their 16-room century-and-a-quarter - old brick house keeps Mrs. Smith quite busy enough. And when she goes outdoors she wants to enjoy the fresh air and not sentence herself to long hard hours of labor in a flower garden.

Sure she likes flowers - but not hard work. So the Smiths have settled for a regular schedule of grass mowing, maintenance of geraniums in the long flower box near the patio which flanks the big screened in porch and a few petunias here and there.

Sound like a rather bleak description? Well the yard at Congo Farm is lovely. Luxuriant shade furnished by the grove of sugar maples planted around the house is the keynote. There are other fine trees - tall old ash, a few native walnut and a fine specimen of spruce in the front area.

THERE'S an enormous patio in back where the barbecuing is done. There is deep shade here also. If you follow the path around the house you go through a gateway where a white board fence encloses another area.

And when you stand in the gateway you behold a glistening aqua jewel nestled in a low spot. It's a swimming pool, free-form in shape, delightful and beautiful with a filtering mechanism that keeps it blue and clear.

Around the pool is an edging of limestone so swimmers may relax on lawn chairs. This year the Smiths are in the process of enlarging the patio near the pool.

The white frame building near the entrance to this area is the dressing room. It's attractive doorway is framed by low stone retaining walls enclosing evergreen material, mostly vinca. From the pool side may be seen cultivated fields and beyond the church steeple and water tower of Kingston.

The site is called Congo Farm because Congo Creek has its source here. The handsome brick house with its shuttered windows and its upstairs gallery and screened in porch was completed in 1840.

GERANIUM PLANTING - Mrs. Carl Smith of Congo Farm insists gardening activities be kept to a minimum. Mowing the spacious lawn is enough of a chore. Mrs. Smith says a few geraniums to give color accents is the extent of her outside work. Here she plants geraniums in the swimming pool area.

Bricks were kilned on the place from clay found on the farm. The outside walls are four courses of brick thick. Inside walls are also brick. They are three courses thick.

CONGO FARM was a wedding gift of Nelson J. Dunlap to his son, Renick Dunlap. The couple settled down cozily on the 500-acre farm in the huge brick house. Counting Mary and Jack Smith and their children, three generations of the family have lived here.

The Smiths have three children. Dr. Peter Smith who is internist at Cleveland's Lakeside Hospital; Anne, a speech therapist in Columbus whose upcoming wedding will be an event of the summer; and Tom who is a junior at Logan Elm now. It falls to Tom to mow the big yard.

Mrs. Smith's father was assistant secretary of agriculture under Coolidge and Hoover, so the family spent a good many years in Washington, D.C. Renick Dunlap brought the family back to Ohio after his Mary finished high school.

At the time of her father's death, the Carl Smiths were living in Rochester, N. Y. "Jack" as he is known to all decided to give up his career with Eastman Kodak and come to Ohio to manage Congo Farm.

It is quite evident that Jack was a country boy at heart all along. He manages the farm with zest and with no apparent regrets about giving up city life.

The Smiths do not want to pose as gardeners. Mary admits that she doesn't like working in the garden. She says her mother did not like it either.

OF COURSE the big house keeps her busy but she readily admits that even if time were heavy on her hands she doubts she'd be anything of a gardener.

But enjoy the place she does. She loves the big trees and the few old fashioned shrubs that somebody planted.

We asked Mary about the ballroom the old timers remember. Many a dance was enjoyed in the big second floor ballroom.

She says they converted the ballroom into two bedrooms with much closet space. This last weekend there were 14 guests at Congo Farm. She has had no cause to regret the change.

When you pass the handsome, substantially built brick house with vines climbing over it and shaded by sugar maples, it may be a gracious reminder of a pleasurable way of life in a past era. Or again it may seem a symbol of today's casual, easy-going life on an Ohio farm.

Acid Loving Plants Hard To Raise Here

Pickaway County soil can and does grow acid loving plants like asaleas, rhododendrons, laurels, blueberries, oxydendron and andromedas. But it is an uphill task and few there be who truly succeed.

If entwined by an overpowering yen for this type of plant or if you like to accept the challenge of doing something difficult, go ahead and try.

Roland Brown, garden writer and horticultural expert, suggests that at planting time incorporate plenty of peat moss. Once a year fertilize the plants with well rotted barnyard manure.

This is slightly acid in reaction. If the plants are still not thriving as they should incorporate dusting sulphur in the soil under the bushes. Buy sulphur at a farm - supply store.

LASTLY, if plants are still yellowish save rain water and avoid watering them with city water. But saving rain water is

Garden Gossip

Circleville abounds in little melodramas. A recent one occurred when the trash man picked up a box of plants outside Mrs. William Rinehart's garage one morning. The box belonged to Jack Goode, nurseryman, who had left it there the night before when he had been unable to put in the last few plants in the garden because of rain.

Goode arrived next morning to complete his task and discovered the box gone. To make matters worse, there was other nursery stock in the box beside Mrs. Rinehart's vinva plants.

Between Goode and Mrs. Rinehart they managed to locate the trashman who escorted Jack to the dump and discovered the plants just where they had pitched them. Virtually unharmed, too!

Alonso Estep, 317 Clinton St., has at least three rows of potatoes that are doing well. These are the rows he covered when he learned the big frost was on its way. They survived. The others were frosted.

Wilbur Mast's early planting of sweet corn was killed by frost. He replanted. This time the pheasants followed the corn planter and systematically ate the grains.

This puts me in mind of the past winter. There were quite a number of UFO reports in Salt-creek Twp. Buck Petty, our neighbor, said if he ever caught sight of one he'd blast it with his shotgun. In all seriousness I urged him not to because I felt he might hurt a visitor from outer space.

They have a rhododendron plant at Dr. Robert McCoy's on Meadow Lane. Mrs. McCoy says it is thriving. It came through the winter in great form and is about to blossom.

Mrs. Kelson Bower, Route 1, says her wild azaleas came through the May 10 freeze without harm. They were in tight bud. Her cultivated hybrids were blighted by the frost. The Bowers covered their strawberries with canvas and cardboard and everything else available. The result was that the berries are bringing forth a fine crop.

such a chore I would try all the other things - the peat moss, sulphur, barnyard manure first.

If the plants persist in looking peaked then use the rain water bit.

Several companies market a special food for azaleas.

Mrs. Don Humphrey, Route 1, uses houseplants to serve as accents to her decorative scheme. In her library she has a splendid cutleaf philodendron. It looked so perfect I thought surely it was a "decorative." Not at all, Mrs. Humphrey is "again" artificial.

Mrs. Gladys Elsea, N. Pick-away St., had a time with some young robins that had hatched out but were too young to fly. She repeatedly put them back in the nest so the prowling cats would not get them. She said she would scold them and say, "Now stay there." But stay they would not.

We have a robin's nest right near the door in the maple tree. Each time we open the door the mother robin flies away. I found myself saying to her, "Get back in your nest. We won't hurt you."

Mrs. Bertha Porter, William-sport, says her lilies took a beating during the freeze. Some gardeners thought frosted lily tops should be cut off so the bulb would not be harmed. Mrs. Porter said the tops had fallen over and she thought cutting them off was not necessary.

The tamarix is a shrub that has put on a fine performance this spring. Mrs. C. R. Barnhart, Montclair Ave., has an excellent specimen.

Ned Harper who lives near the bridge below Whisler on the McGinnis farm was delighted that his corn was just popping up when we had the hard freeze. It came through and is flourishing.

On the other hand George Radabaugh, also on the McGinnis farm, had planted his corn earlier so that the freeze really cooked it. It was up about three or four inches, too.

Ruth Smyers is discouraged about getting her garden out. She has tomatoes some 10 inches high in the kitchen window. But she is going to be cautious about setting the plants outside.

Wayne Smyers, near Whisler, recited a cute verse at the grocery store the other day. It went like this: "I bought a nickel's worth of seeds, And grew a dollar's worth of weeds, Now when the weeds began to vine, I was glad I hadn't spent a dime."

Garden Hopping Information Available for Stay-at-Homes

Going abroad this summer? If not, here's a book for stay-at-homes.

It is written by a noted free lance photographer, Martha McMillan Roberts. The book's title is "Public Gardens and Arboretums of the United States."

The author has superb photographs of 71 of America's famous public gardens. If you are vacationing within the United States she will give you several glimpses of gardens in the far west, in the New England States, down South, up North, and in the central portion of the nation.

And once you get a glimpse you will want to visit the garden.

Nursery succumbed to the freeze right along with all the other sunburst locusts. But Mrs. Kelson Bower says that one locust tree at the nursery for some unknown reason had not been harmed. Sunbursts are bouncing back and growing new leaves now. But the poor pin oaks are really beat. I assume, however, that they'll recuperate.

dens if you are touring in that part of the country.

IF IN the west you'll want to see the Rose Gardens in Berkeley, Calif., or the International Rose Test Gardens in Portland, Ore., or the Henry E. Huntington Library Gardens, San Marino, Calif., or the Washington Park Garden in Denver, Colo.

If it's the east, you will want to see the Longfellow House Gardens in Portland, Me., or the Boston Public Garden in Mass. or the Sherwood Gardens in Baltimore, Md.

For the traveler's convenience the book is indexed by states.

And if you really are a stay-at home and you are not even leaving Ohio this author still has good news. You can take short trips. There are fine gardens to see in your own state.

Author Roberts thought enough of these Ohio gardens of include them in her book. And they are all easily accessible to Circleville people.

Take her advice and do not miss the Park of Roses, Columbus; the Dawes Arboretum, Newark; Eden Park Conservatory, Cincinnati; Kingwood Center, Mansfield; or Gardens of the Cleveland Museum of Art.

Congo Farm Symbolic of Casual, Easy-Going Life in Rural Ohio

For casual, relaxed, take-it-easy outdoor living the Carl Smiths of Congo Farm on Route 159 just half a mile from Kingston take the cake.

Their 16-room century-and-a-quarter-old brick house keeps Mrs. Smith quite busy enough. And when she goes outdoors she wants to enjoy the fresh air and not sentence herself to long hard hours of labor in a flower garden.

Sure she likes flowers—but not hard work. So the Smiths have settled for a regular schedule of grass mowing, maintenance of geraniums in the long flower box near the patio which flanks the big screened-in porch and a few petunias here and there.

Sound like a rather bleak description? Well the yard at Congo Farm is lovely. Luxuriant shade furnished by the grove of sugar maples planted around the house is the keynote. There are other fine trees—tall old ash, a few native walnut and a fine specimen of spruce in the front area.

THERE'S an enormous patio in back where the barbecuing is done. There is deep shade here also. If you follow the path around the house you go through a gateway where a white board fence encloses another area.

And when you stand in the gateway you behold a glistening aqua jewel nestled in a low spot. It's a swimming pool, free-form in shape, delightful and beautiful with a filtering mechanism that keeps it blue and clear.

Around the pool is an edging of limestone so swimmers may relax on lawn chairs. This year the Smiths are in the process of enlarging the patio near the pool.

The white frame building near the entrance to this area is the dressing room. It's attractive doorway is framed by low stone retaining walls enclosing evergreen material, mostly yucca. From the pool side may be seen cultivated fields and beyond the church steeple and water tower of Kingston.

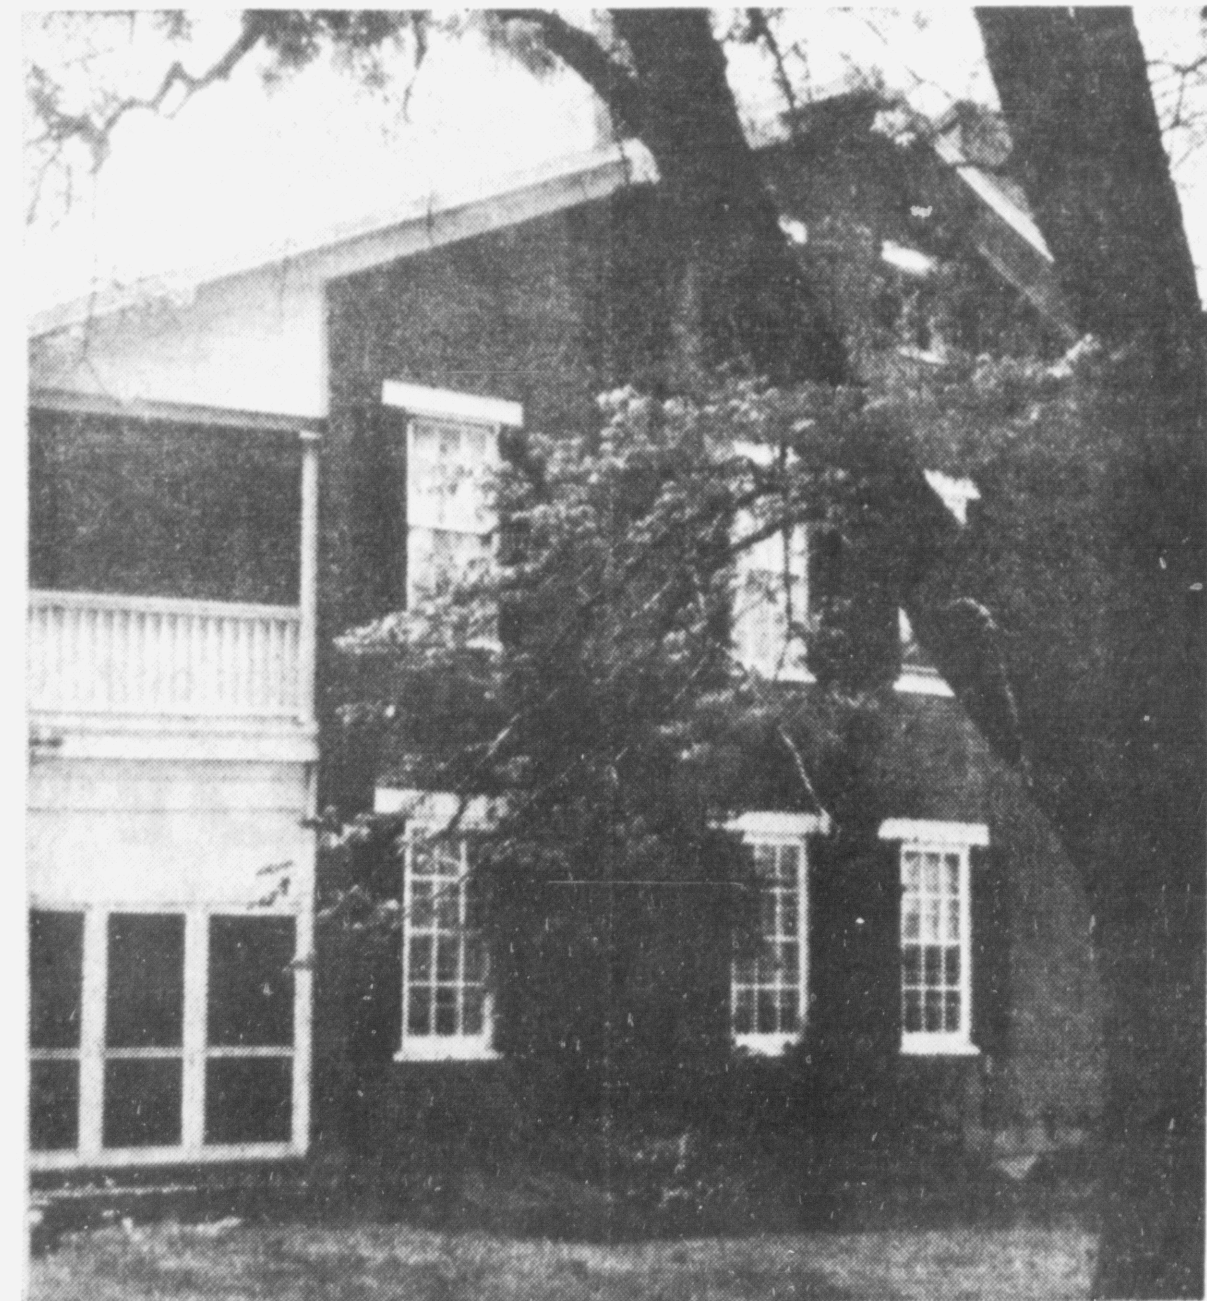

The site is called Congo Farm because Congo Creek has its source here. The handsome brick house with its shuttered windows and its upstairs gallery and screened-in porch was completed in 1840.

The house with 500 acres surrounding it was the wedding gift of Nelson J. Dunlap to his son Renick and his bride. The Smith youngsters are the third generation of the family to enjoy Congo Farm.

GERANIUM PLANTING — Mrs. Carl Smith of Congo Farm insists gardening activities be kept to a minimum. Mowing the spacious lawn is enough of a chore. Mrs. Smith says a few geraniums to give color accents is the extent of her outside work. Here she plants geraniums in the swimming pool area.

Bricks were kilned on the place from clay found on the farm. The outside walls are four courses of brick thick. Inside walls are also brick. They are three courses thick.

CONGO FARM was a wedding gift of Nelson J. Dunlap to his son, Renick Dunlap. The couple settled down cozily on the 500-acre farm in the huge brick house. Counting Mary and Jack Smith and their children, three generations of the family have lived here.

The Smiths have three children. Dr. Peter Smith who is internist at Cleveland's Lakeside Hospital; Anne, a speech therapist in Columbus whose upcoming wedding will be an event of the summer; and Tom who is a junior at Logan Elm now. It falls to Tom to mow the big yard.

Mrs. Smith's father was assistant secretary of agriculture under Coolidge and Hoover, so the family spent a good many years in Washington, D.C. Renick Dunlap brought the family back to Ohio after his Mary finished high school.

At the time of her father's death, the Carl Smiths were living in Rochester, N. Y. "Jack" as he is known to all decided to give up his career with Eastman Kodak and come to Ohio to manage Congo Farm.

It is quite evident that Jack was a country boy at heart all along. He manages the farm with zest and with no apparent regrets about giving up city life.

The Smiths do not want to pose as gardeners. Mary admits that she doesn't like working in the garden. She says her mother did not like it either.

OF COURSE the big house keeps her busy but she readily admits that even if time were heavy on her hands she doubts she'd be anything of a gardener.

Garden Gossip

Circleville abounds in little melodramas. A recent one occurred when the trash man picked up a box of plants outside Mrs. William Rinehart's garage one morning. The box belonged to Jack Goode, nurseryman, who had left it there the night before when he had been unable to put in the last few plants in the garden because of rain.

Goode arrived next morning to complete his task and discovered the box gone. To make matters worse, there was other nursery stock in the box beside Mrs. Rinehart's vinca plants.

Between Goode and Mrs. Rinehart they managed to locate the trashman who escorted Jack to the dump and discovered the plants just where they had pitched them. Virtually unharmed, too!

Alonso Estep, 317 Clinton St., has at least three rows of potatoes that are doing well. These are the rows he covered when he learned the big frost was on its way. They survived. The others were frosted.

Wilbur Mast's early planting of sweet corn was killed by frost. He replanted. This time the pheasants followed the corn planter and systematically ate the grains.

This puts me in mind of the past winter. There were quite a number of UFO reports in Salt-creek Twp. Buck Petty, our neighbor, said if he ever caught sight of one he'd blast it with his shotgun. In all seriousness I urged him not to because I felt he might hurt a visitor from outer space.

They have a rhododendron plant at Dr. Robert McCoy's on Meadow Lane. Mrs. McCoy says it is thriving. It came through the winter in great form and is about to blossom.

Mrs. Nelson Bower, Route 1, says her wild azaleas came through the May 10 freeze without harm. They were in tight bud. Her cultivated hybrids were blighted by the frost. The Bowers covered their strawberries with canvas and cardboard and everything else available. The result was that the berries are such a chore I would try all the other things — the peat moss, sulphur, barnyard manure first.

If the plants persist in looking peaked then use the rain water bit.

Several companies market a special food for azaleas.

sult was that the berries are bringing forth a fine crop.

Mrs. Don Humphrey, Route 1, uses houseplants to serve as accents to her decorative scheme. In her library she has a splendid cutleaf philodendron. It looked so perfect I thought surely it was a "decorative." Not at all. Mrs. Humphrey is "again" artificial.

Mrs. Gladys Elsea, N. Pickaway St., had a time with some young robins that had hatched out but were too young to fly. She repeatedly put them back in the nest so the prowling cats would not get them. She said she would scold them and say, "Now stay there." But stay they would not.

We have a robin's nest right near the door in the maple tree. Each time we open the door the mother robin flies away. I found myself saying to her, "Get back in your nest. We won't hurt you."

Mrs. Bertha Porter, William-sport, says her lilies took a beating during the freeze. Some gardeners thought frosted lily tops should be cut off so the bulb would not be harmed. Mrs. Porter said the tops had fallen over and she thought cutting them off was not necessary.

The tamarix is a shrub that has put on a fine performance this spring. Mrs. C. R. Barnhart, Montclair Ave., has an excellent specimen.

Ned Harper who lives near the bridge below Whisler on the McGinnis farm was delighted that his corn was just popping up when we had the hard freeze. It came through and is flourishing.

On the other hand George Radabaugh, also on the McGinnis farm, had planted his corn earlier so that the freeze really cooked it. It was up about three or four inches, too.

Ruth Smyers is discouraged about getting her garden out. She has tomatoes some 10 inches high in the kitchen window. But she is going to be cautious about setting the plants outside.

Wayne Smyers, near Whisler, recited a cute verse at the grocery store the other day. It went like this: "I bought a nickel's worth of seeds. And grew a dollar's worth of weeds. Now when the weeds began to vine, I was glad I hadn't spent a dime."

Mrs. Hedges Has Top Arrangement

DON'T BE A LITTERBUG PROJECT — Mrs. Shirley Anderson, civic committee chairman for the Monrovia Garden Club, poses with several of the 97 posters entered in the Litterbug Poster contest. The club presented the school at Five Points with a litter can. The Methodist Church at the village was also given a container.

THE WINNER — Mrs. Russell Beckett (right), vice president of Monrovia Garden Club, and Mrs. Walter Hughes, flower show judge, eye the best-of-show exhibit created by Mrs. C. W. Hedges. Materials used were tamarix and star-of-Bethlehem. In the background are some of the entries in the Litterbug Poster contest sponsored by the Monrovia Club. These were judged the day of the flower show.

Mrs. C. W. Hedges won the best-of-show at the Monrovia Garden Club Flower Show last week. Her exhibit was entered in the class entitled "Moon Magic." It was made up of tamarix branches and Star-of-Bethlehem in a tall stemmed container.

When the garden editor discovered that the charming star-shaped green and white flowers were none other than the common little weed that people pull out of their lawns all the time she was reminded of a Bible verse. The verse is: "The race is not to the swift nor yet to the strong, but time and chance happeneth to all men."

Amazing to know that this lowly flower could be a part of the best arrangement in the whole show! But such was Mrs.

Perennials Don't Save Much Labor

Tired of planting those annuals? Think you'd like to plant perennials and rest on your laurels ever afterwards?

I've got news for you. Perennials are lots of work. Many of them need to be dug and divided every three years or oftener.

Sometimes you'll get root spreaders like monardella or false dragonhead that will take their place unless you watch and yank out the plant when it begins to crowd out other perennials.

There are things like delphinium that are not particularly long-lived. These will have to be replaced frequently.

NO, PERENNIALS will not save you any great amount of work. But such plants can open up a whole new interesting world. They are worth trying. But here's a sad bit of news. The average perennial has a bloom period of 10 days — 15 at the most. The rest of the time you have a foliage plant on your hands that takes up a lot of room.

Annuals may be relied upon for a longer period of color. Take the petunia. It will bloom for months. Take the marigold. It has a long period of bloom. Snapdragons will come again when spikes are consistently cut.

If interested in trying perennials plan a seasonal garden. Plant only June blooming types for instance. When June is over tuck in a few annuals for color. A perennial border of continuous bloom takes a lot of space.

No, perennials won't save you much work. But they'll add a new dimension to your gardening interest.

Garden Gossip

18. The poster exhibit sponsored by the civic committee stole the show. There were 97 posters on display, all the work of school youngsters at Five Points.

Mrs. Donald Watt, 540 N. Court Street, invited me to visit her garden recently. She was not home the day I went which was May 5. But as I strolled around I beheld only order and beauty. Not much in bloom at the time. Mrs. Watt is a gardener without peer. She has not been able to work as hard as usual this spring, but somebody's been their working.

Mrs. Watt asked me if I knew anybody that had an old fashioned sweet shrub some times called strawberry shrub. This is listed as calycanthus in cursey catalogues. Mrs. Watt maintains that the modern day calycanthus do not have the same delicious fragrance that the old sweet shrub had. There is an old superstition about sweet shrub — namely that it only thrives in gardens where the wife henpecks her husband. If anybody feels sorry for my husband I will have it known that I never have had any luck with this lovely old fashioned shrub.

Mrs. Kenneth Knox, 327 Meadow Lane, found an interesting garden book for me to review for the garden page when I was at the library. I called her and she was out checking on

CUSTER GERANIUM — This geranium which is 2-years-old was enjoyed all winter by its owner, Mrs. Bryan J. Custer, 113 W. Franklin St. Brought in from outdoors it wintered over in a sunny indoor spot. Mrs. Custer watered it faithfully, gave it a fertilizer pill every few weeks and watched it grow. It reached a height of 5 1/2 feet. And it bloomed the entire winter. Truthfully we wanted to have Mrs. Custer's picture taken along with the geranium's because the plant is actually going to outgrow her in a few more months. She declined, however.

Solaqua's Rose Breakfast Scheduled Here on June 3

The fourth annual Rose Breakfast sponsored by the Solaqua Garden Club will be held June 3 at Prairie Lanes Party Room, Circleville.

The public is invited to participate.

Registration will begin at 9 a. m. and serving will be continuous. A program of musical sketching by Mrs. Nathan Archer Jr. of Lockbourne will be a feature.

Theme of the flower show will be — "A Jaunt in a June Garden." There are four classes in the horticultural division and six in the arrangement division. The artistic classes are:

1. My Wildest Dream (an abstract) — story must be placed with arrangement.
2. The Prima Donna — arrangement with only one rose, buds and a minimum of foliage permitted.
3. Breezing Along With The Breeze — an arrangement suggesting motion.
4. A Tisket, A Tasket — arrangement in a basket.
5. A Warm Day — a free form.
6. A Foliage Arrangement. Classes in the specimen division are:

1. Best Hybrid Tea Rose (other than Peace) — any color, three blooms.
2. Best Peace Rose — three blooms.
3. Best Climbing Rose (any color) — one stem not to exceed two feet.
4. Best Floribunda Rose (any color) — one stem.

Rules and Regulations are:

1. Entries are open to anyone who cares to exhibit. Exhibitors may compete in as many classes as desired. Only one entry permitted in each class from any one family.
2. All flowers entered in specimen classes must be grown by exhibitor.
3. Flowers used in artistic arrangements need not be grown by exhibitor. All material must be garden grown, however, no hot-house material permitted.
4. Entries will be received between the hours 9-10:30 a. m. Exhibits may be removed at close of meeting.
5. Every precaution will be taken against breakage, damage or loss of property of exhibitor, but the Club will not be responsible should such breakage or loss occur.
6. A base under a container will be considered as part of the arrangement. Accessories permitted in all classes but will be optional.
7. Each exhibitor will be allowed to place her own arrangement, but should it become necessary to move or otherwise disturb any arrangement other than her own, she shall contact a member of the Committee and she, in turn, will request the arranger of said arrangement to move her own.
8. Foreign foliage permitted in all classes. Foreign foliage means foliage of other plants, not necessarily that of the flowers used in the arrangement.
9. Artistic arrangements must be the work of the exhibitor.
10. Decision of Judge will be final. All entries will be judged first, second, third and honorable mention. First is worth $1.50, Second, $1. Third, 50 cents and honorable mention, ribbon.
11. Roses must be included in Classes I and II — need not be used in Classes 3 - 4 - 5 - 6.

Iris Show At Kingwood May 28-29

The Central Ohio Iris Society will stage its annual iris show at Kingwood Center in Mansfield on May 28-29. The two-day event will be open to the public on Saturday from 2 until 9 p. m. EST and on Sunday from 10 a. m. until 8 p. m. EST.

Anyone who grows iris may enter. Members of the Central Ohio Iris Society will be on hand to give assistance to those who have never entered a flower show before. In case the name of a particular variety of iris is not known there will be a special class for the varieties for which the name is unknown.

Entries of specimen blooms and arrangements will be accepted in the Exhibit Hall on Saturday from 7:30 a. m. till 11 a. m. In the horticultural division there are open classes and classes limited to new exhibitors.

This gives the amateur or novice a chance to compete on an even basis with others of his mettle to gain experience, and win ribbons. An excellent group of trophies and awards are to be given for prize winning specimens.

The artistic arrangements division has as its theme, "The World is Your Neighbor." Some iris must be used in each of the arrangements and need not be grown by the exhibitor.

The extremely cold temperatures this spring in the Mansfield area have held back the iris in the Kingwood gardens to the extent that peak bloom will not be reached until some time early in June.

However, there will be much of interest in flowers in the gardens at the time of the show. The low temperatures have injured the roses to the extent that the Kingwood Rose Society is postponing its show to a later date to be announced.

The show and the gardens are open to the public without charge. Kingwood is located on the west edge of Mansfield and is accessible by following Kingwood Center signs from U. S. Rte. 30 from the east and west, Interstate 71 from the north and south, and Rte. 13 from the Ohio Turnpike.

The Herald Garden Editor, GR 4-6825, has information on the schedule.

English of Vietnamese Can Be a Little Startling

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — It fair rattles a lonely American to pick up the morning paper and learn the New York Mets won a "nightrap."

Such traumatic usage is daily fare for readers of Saigon's free-wheeling English-language press.

You are informed, for example, that the new Miss U.S.A., Maria Judith Remenyi, was happy when she "woke up" the morning after winning the title.

It seems that the city's type setter, long accustomed to French, have not yet reached a working agreement with English.

Meanwhile, lovers of the English language — a group of questionable size in Viet Nam — read each day's offerings with apprehension.

A recent edition offers a fair sampling.

The GIs of the 1st Air Cavalry Division were cited for having seized some "vintage postions." Presumably, this was an old French wine cellar.

American soldiers looking for a little entertainment are offered some unusual opportunities. There is the advertisement for a restaurant with "three renowned shefs."

After that they can go to a "modern and tranquil" hotel. It is fairly near a nightclub with "peasant hostesses."

Any soldier whose kids are having trouble at home would be attracted to the aid for an agency asking if he is interested "in adapting a child."

Graduates of President John F. Kennedy's favorite university would be cheered to learn that it has offered an honorary degree to President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines. The headline says "Marcos to get nightrap by a score of 7-2, they lost the first game to San Francisco 5-0. They were playing "baseball."

Oh yes, the Mets won that degree from Harvard."

Mrs. Hedges Has Top Arrangement

DON'T BE A LITTERBUG PROJECT — Mrs. Shirley Anderson, civic committee chairman for the Monrovia Garden Club, poses with several of the 97 posters entered in the Litterbug Poster contest. The club presented the school at Five Points with a litter can. The Methodist Church at the village was also given a container.

THE WINNER — Mrs. Russel Beckett (right), vice president of Monrovia Garden Club, and Mrs. Walter Hughes, flower show judge, eye the best-of-show exhibit created by Mrs. C. W. Hedges. Materials used were tamarix and star-of-Bethlehem. In the background are some of the entries in the Litterbug Poster contest sponsored by the Monrovia Club. These were posted the day of the flower show.

Mrs. C. W. Hedges won the best-of-show at the Monrovia Garden Club Flower Show last week. Her exhibit was entered in the class entitled "Moon Magic." It was made up of tamarix branches and Star-of-Bethlehem in a tall stemmed container.

When the garden editor discovered that the charming star-shaped green and white flowers were none other than the common little weed that people pull out of their lawns all the time she was reminded of a Bible verse. The verse is: "The race is not to the swift nor yet to the strong, but time and chance happeneth to all men."

Aazing to know that this lowly flower could be a part of the best arrangement in the whole show! But such was Mrs.

Perennials Don't Save Much Labor

Tired of planting those annuals? Think you'd like to plant perennials and rest on your laurels ever afterwards?

I've got news for you. Perennials are lots of work. Many of them need to be dug and divided every three years or oftener.

Sometimes you'll get root spreaders like monardella or false dragonhead that will take their place unless you watch and yank out the plant when it begins to crowd out other perennials.

There are things like delphinium that are not particularly long-lived. These will have to be replaced frequently.

NO, PERENNIALS will not save you any great amount of work. But such plants can open up a whole new interesting world. They are worth trying. But here's a sad bit of news. The average perennial has a bloom period of 10 days — 15 at the most. The rest of the time you have a foliage plant on your hands that takes up a lot of room.

Annuals may be relied upon for a longer period of color. Take the petunia. It will bloom for months. Take the marigold. It has a long period of bloom. Snapdragons will come again when spikes are consistently cut.

If interested in trying perennials plan a seasonal garden. Plant only June blooming types for instance. When June is over tuck in a few annuals for color. A perennial border of continuous bloom takes a lot of space.

No, perennials won't save you much work. But they'll add a new dimension to your gardening interest.

Garden Gossip

18. The poster exhibit sponsored by the civic committee stole the show. There were 97 posters on display, all the work of school youngsters at Five Points.

Mrs. Donald Watt, 540 N. Court Street, invited me to visit her garden recently. She was not home the day I went which was May 5. But as I strolled around I beheld only order and beauty. Not much in bloom at the time. Mrs. Watt is a gardener without peer. She has not been able to work as hard as usual this spring, but somebody's been their working.

Mrs. Watt asked me if I knew anybody that had an old fashioned sweet shrub some times called strawberry shrub. This is listed as calycanthus in cursory catalogues. Mrs. Watt maintains that the modern day calycanthus do not have the same delicious fragrance that the old sweet shrub had. There is an old superstition about sweet shrub — namely that it only thrives in gardens where the wife henpecks her husband. If anybody feels sorry for my husband I will have it known that I never have had any luck with this lovely old fashioned shrub.

Mrs. Kenneth Knox, 327 Meadow Lane, found an interesting garden book for me to review for the garden page when I was at the library. I called her and she was out checking on her pansies and violas. Mrs. Knox gardened rather intensively at one time, but she took to reading cookbooks. She said she prefers dividing her talents now.

CUSTER GERANIUM — This geranium which is 2-years-old was enjoyed all winter by its owner, Mrs. Bryan J. Custer, 113 W. Franklin St. Brought in from outdoors it wintered over in a sunny indoor spot. Mrs. Custer watered it faithfully, gave it a fertilizer pill every few weeks and watched it grow. It reached a height of 5½ feet. And it bloomed the entire winter. Truthfully we wanted to have Mrs. Custer's picture taken along with the geranium's because the plant is actually going to outgrow her in a few more months. She declined, however.

The fourth annual Rose Breakfast sponsored by the Solaqua Garden Club will be held June 3 at Prairie Lanes Party Room, Circleville.

The public is invited to participate.

Registration will begin at 9 a. m. and serving will be continuous. A program of musical sketching by Mrs. Nathan Archer Jr. of Lockbourne will be a feature.

Theme of the flower show will be — "A Jaunt in a June Garden." There are four classes in the horticultural division and six in the arrangement division. The artistic classes are:

1. My Wildest Dream (an abstract) — story must be placed with arrangement.
2. The Prima Donna — arrangement with only one rose, buds and a minimum of foliage permitted.
3. Breezing Along With The Breeze — an arrangement suggesting motion.
4. A Tisket, A Tasket — flowers in a basket.
5. A Warm Day — a free form.
6. A Foliage Arrangement.

Classes in the specimen division are:

1. Best Hybrid Tea Rose (other than Peace) — any color, three blooms.
2. Best Peace Rose — three blooms.
3. Best Climbing Rose (any color) — one stem not to exceed two feet.
4. Best Floribunda Rose (any color) — one stem.
- Rules and Regulations are:
1. Entries are open to anyone who cares to exhibit. Exhibitors may compete in as many classes as desired. Only one entry permitted in each class from any one family.
2. All flowers entered in specimen classes must be grown by exhibitor.
3. Flowers used in artistic arrangements need not be grown by exhibitor. All material must be garden grown, however, no hot-house material permitted.
4. Entries will be received between the hours 9:30 a. m. Exhibits may be removed at close of meeting.
5. Every precaution will be taken against breakage, damage or loss of property of exhibitor, but the Club will not be responsible should such breakage or loss occur.
6. A base under a container will be considered as part of the arrangement. Accessories permitted in all classes but will be optional.
7. Each exhibitor will be allowed to place her own arrangement, but should it become necessary to move or otherwise disturb any arrangement other than her own, she shall contact a member of the Committee and she, in turn, will request the arranger of said arrangement to move her own.
8. Foreign foliage permitted in all classes. Foreign foliage means foliage of other plants, not necessarily that of the flowers used in the arrangement.
9. Artistic arrangements must be the work of the exhibitor.
10. Decision of Judge will be final. All entries will be judged first, second, third and honorable mention. First is worth $1.50, Second, $1, Third, 50 cents and honorable mention, ribbon.
11. Roses must be included in Classes I and II — need not be used in Classes 3 - 4 - 5 - 6.

Notice is hereby given that George W. Miller and Donald D. Miller whose Post Office addresses are both Route 1, Circleville, Ohio have been duly appointed Executors of the Estate of Goldie E. Miller late of Pickaway County, Ohio deceased.

Iris Show At Kingwood May 28-29

The Central Ohio Iris Society will stage its annual iris show at Kingwood Center in Mansfield on May 28-29. The two-day event will be open to the public on Saturday from 2 until 9 p. m. EST and on Sunday from 10 a. m. until 8 p. m. EST.

Anyone who grows iris may enter. Members of the Central Ohio Iris Society will be on hand to give assistance to those who have never entered a flower show before. In case the name of a particular variety of iris is not known there will be a special class for the varieties for which the name is unknown.

Entries of specimen blooms and arrangements will be accepted in the Exhibit Hall on Saturday from 7:30 a. m. till 11 a. m. In the horticultural division there are open classes and classes limited to new exhibitors.

This gives the amateur or novice a chance to compete on an even basis with others of his mettle to gain experience, and win ribbons. An excellent group of trophies and awards are to be given for prize winning specimens.

The artistic arrangements division has as its theme, "The World is Your Neighbor." Some iris must be used in each of the arrangements and need not be grown by the exhibitor.

The extremely cold temperatures this spring in the Mansfield area have held back the iris in the Kingwood gardens to the extent that peak bloom will not be reached until some time early in June.

However, there will be much of interest in flowers in the gardens at the time of the show. The low temperatures have injured the roses to the extent that the Kingwood Rose Society is postponing its show to a later date to be announced.

The show and the gardens are open to the public without charge. Kingwood is located on the west edge of Mansfield and is accessible by following Kingwood Center signs from U. S. Rte. 30 from the east and west, Interstate 71 from the north and south, and Rte. 13 from the Ohio Turnpike.

The Herald Garden Editor, GR 4-6825, has information on the schedule.

English of Vietnamese Can Be a Little Startling

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — It fair rattles a lonely American to pick up the morning paper and learn the New York Mets won a "nightrap."

Such traumatic usage is daily fare for readers of Saigon's free-wheeling English-language press.

You are informed, for example, that the new Miss U.S.A., Maria Judith Remenyi, was happy when she "woke up" the morning after winning the title.

It seems that the city's type setter, long accustomed to French, have not yet reached a working agreement with English.

Meanwhile, lovers of the English language — a group of questionable size in Viet Nam — read each day's offerings with apprehension.

A recent edition offers a fair sampling. The GIs of the 1st Air Cavalry Division were cited for having seized some "vintage postions." Presumably, this was an old French wine cellar.

American soldiers looking for a little entertainment are offered some unusual opportunities. There is the advertisement for a restaurant with "three renowned shefs."

After that they can go to a "modern and tranquil" hotel. It is fairly near a nightclub with "peasant hostesses."

The World Today

By STERLING F. GREEN
For James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The
administration's wage - price guidelines may be headed for extensive alterations or the scrap heap.

That's the judgment of some labor - management relations experts who have good administration contacts.

Their opinions cannot be documented officially because the Johnson administration, until it has a better stabilization device to offer as a substitute, is bound to insist 3.2 per cent is now and ever shall be a reasonable, fair and noninflationary wage increase.

Nevertheless the search for a better device or a revised formula has begun. That's the job for which President Johnson
recently revived the Labor-
Management Advisory Committee. He asked its advice on how to "cope with the threat of inflation in an expanding economy."

Labor has repudiated the
"voluntary" guideposts. In effect the guidelines impose a ceiling only on workers' wages,
the unions say, while allowing price and corporation profits to soar. And some labor relations experts hold that a guideline policy which might work in a slack economy is unlikely to work in a full employment economy.

Can a better but still voluntary way be found — one acceptable to both labor and management?

Some clue may come June 3,
when the 21-member committee
— seven members each from industry, labor and the public — holds its second meeting in the offices of Secretary of Labor W.
Willard Wirtz, the chairman.

A six-member working subcommittee — two leaders from each of the three sides — then will report on progress. They could come in empty-handed.
Conceivably, they might even report the present guidelines are the best approach they can think of.

But there are indications hard, sincere effort is being poured into the search by the unseen but influential six. Only the labor pair has been identified. They are AFL-CIO President George Meany and United Steelworkers President I. W.
Abel. Presumably the management men have equal stature in industry; if they come up with an idea, they will be listened to.
Perhaps Meany and Abel will be the two men hardest to satisfy.
Labor has come to feel it was sold an unintentional bill of goods when President John F.

Kennedy posted the guideposts.

Disillusionment came quickly.
The steelworkers signed a settlement called "noninfla-tionary" but the steel firms
promptly raised their prices.

That set off the 1962 battle between Kennedy and Big Steel.
The price hike was rescinded
and industry leaders denounced the guidelines. Nobody loved them, but the expanding economy stayed stable for four years.

Now, in the fifth year of an unprecedented five-year boom,
things have heated up. The price creep has become a trot
and profits have set records.

As the guidelines have come to be interpreted, the gains in worker productivity over the past five years should have led to a wage guidepost increase from 3.2 per cent to 3.5 per cent
this year.

But the White House is sticking to the 3.2 formula, even as the Labor Department reports
the real spendable earnings of factory workers have declined over the past year because of price rises.

So the AFL-CIO has served notice it will henceforth for everything it can get, unless there is assurance of some effective restraint on prices and profits. That poses the threat of a real price-wage spiral unless the labor-management advisers
bring in some bright ideas soon.

Pooh Tales

Rewritten

For Kiddies

LONDON (AP) —They're
rewriting Winnie the Pooh—for children.

For 42 years—since the late
A. A. Milne wrote the first Winnie the Pooh books—many literate persons have been under the impression that Milne wrote for children.

In fact, he wrote with one particular child in mind, his son,
Christopher Robin Milne.

Now 45, Christopher Milne
says: "I was 5 when the first book came out. I had no trouble understanding it."

Responsible for the rewrite is a British publishing company
Young World Products. It is bringing out eight Pooh books—
six of them rewrites—to "provide an opportunity for the mass market to meet Winnie
the Pooh."

The new editions will be, officially, books from the film in which Walt Disney made Winnie
a movie star.

Rosemary Garland a children's author who is doing the rewrite on Pooh, said:

"I think that Milne's very adult. Many of his Poohisms are a very sophisticated form of humor. I'm abridging Milne's sentences."

Laurelville News

By Mrs. Ray Poling

John Reid, who has been in Viet Nam for seven months as an administrative head in a government hospital, returned home Saturday. He plans to enter college in North Carolina to work on his masters degree.
John and his sister, Janet of Columbus spent the weekend with their parents. All attended the Alumni banquet.

A capacity crowd attended the Alumni banquet held in the school gym Saturday evening.
Presiding over activities was the president, Mrs. Robert West, George Wilson, professor at Ohio State and graduate of the Laurelville Class of 1941, was toastmaster.

The program consisted of vocal music by Mrs. Wanda Harmon; a skit by Mrs. Dorothy McClelland; a welcome by Mrs. Audaleen Poling; presentation of seniors by Mr. Christy; response by Michael Rose; and a short memorial honoring those alumni members who lost their lives in the service;

A trumpet solo by Joe Cav-line; History of the school by Celeste Hoy; "We Honor" by Gertrude Kempton who presented members of the class of 1917 and the class of 1941.

Remarks were made by the retiring president, and the new president, Mrs. Merwin McClelland. The program ended with Mrs. Harmon singing "Climb Every Mountain."

Miss Frances McClelland, a teacher of 37 years who recently retired, was honored, as was Mrs. Leland Yapple.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Miller and son Jeff of Kokomo, Ind., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs.
John Norton.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lee Mc-Cabe and son of Tarleton and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Shaw were Thursday evening supper guests of Mr and Mrs. Lloyd McCabe.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Stone of Leesburg were weekend guests of her sister Mrs. Nell Swackhamer. A Sunday guest was Miss Mary Barclay of near Bethel.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Huffman and daughter Sandy of Toledo and Mrs. Huffman's sister from Columbus were visiting relatives in Laurelville Tuesday.
Visited were Mrs. Howard
Egan, Mrs. Dick Karr and Mrs.
Ray Poling.

Mrs. Charles Pritchard of Adelphi and Mrs. Ray Poling attended an all-day meeting Wednesday of the Central Buckeye Council of Red Cross in Logan.

The Pleasant Valley Home Economic Club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs.
Murell Karshner.

The meeting was opened by the president Mrs. Charles Prit-

The World Today

By STERLING F. GREEN
For James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The
administration's wage - price
guidelines may be headed for extensive alterations or the scrap heap.

That's the judgment of some labor - management relations
experts who have good administration contacts.

Their opinions cannot be documented officially because the
Johnson administration, until it has a better stabilization device
to offer as a substitute, is bound to insist 3.2 per cent is now and ever shall be a reasonable, fair
and noninflationary wage increase.

Nevertheless the search for a better device or a revised formula has begun. That's the job
for which President Johnson
recently revived the Labor-
Management Advisory Committee. He asked its advice on how to "cope with the threat of inflation in an expanding economy."

Labor has repudiated the
"voluntary" guideposts. In effect the guidelines impose a
ceiling only on workers' wages,
the unions say, while allowing
price and corporation profits to soar. And some labor relations
experts hold that a guideline
policy which might work in a stable economy is unlikely to work in a full employment economy.

Can a better but still voluntary way be found — one acceptable to both labor and management?

Some clue may come June 3,
when the 21-member committee
— seven members each from industry, labor and the public —
holds its second meeting in the offices of Secretary of Labor W.
Willard Wirtz, the chairman.

A six-member working subcommittee — two leaders from each of the three sides — then
will report on progress. They could come in empty-handed.
Conceivably, they might even
report the present guidelines
are the best approach they can think of.

But there are indications hard, sincere effort is being poured into the search by the unseen but influential six. Only
the labor pair has been identified. They are AFL-CIO President George Meany and United Steelworkers President I. W.
Abel. Presumably the management men have equal stature in industry; if they come up with an idea, they will be listened to.

Perhaps Meany and Abel will be the two men hardest to satisfy. Labor has come to feel it was sold an unintentional bill of
goods when President John F.

Kennedy posted the guideposts.
Disillusionment came quickly.
The steelworkers signed a settlement called "noninfla-
tionary" but the steel firms
promptly raised their prices.

That set off the 1962 battle
between Kennedy and Big Steel.
The price hike was rescinded
and industry leaders denounced
the guidelines. Nobody loved them, but the expanding economy stayed stable for four years.

Now, in the fifth year of an unprecedented five year boom,
things have heated up. The price creep has become a trot
and profits have set records.

As the guidelines have come to be interpreted, the gains in worker productivity over the
to a wage guidepost increase from 3.2 per cent to 3.5 per cent
this year.

But the White House is sticking to the 3.2 formula, even as the Labor Department reports
the real spendable earnings of
factory workers have declined
over the past year because of
price rises.

So the AFL-CIO has served notice it will hit henceforth for everything it can get, unless there is assurance of some effective restraint on prices and profits. That poses the threat of a real price-wage spiral unless
the labor-management advisers
bring in some bright ideas
soon.

Pooh Tales

Rewritten

For Kiddies

LONDON (AP) —They're
rewriting Winnie the Pooh—for
children.

For 42 years—since the late
A. A. Milne wrote the first Winnie the Pooh books—many literate persons have been under the impression that Milne wrote for children.

In fact, he wrote with one particular child in mind, his son,
Christopher Robin Milne.

Now 45, Christopher Milne
says: "I was 5 when the first book came out. I had no trouble understanding it."

Responsible for the rewrite is
a British publishing company
Young World Products. It is bringing out eight Pooh books—
six of them rewrites—to "provide an opportunity for the mass market to meet Winnie
the Pooh."

The new editions will be, officially, books from the film in which Walt Disney made Winnie
a movie star.

Rosemary Garland, a children's author who is doing the
rewrite on Pooh, said:

"I think that Milne's very adult. Many of his Poohisms are
a very sophisticated form of humor. I'm abridging Milne's
sentences."

'500' Drivers Are Loaded With Many Social Affairs

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — In the first Indianapolis 500-mile auto race in 1911, the drivers lined up according to times in the first round of qualifying. The drivers were lined up in the order of their times, and the race was run on a single lap. The race was won by Harry Miller, who drove a Miller car. The race was a great success, and it was the first of many great races at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Birdie Involved In Rhubarb as Indians Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Sam McDowell wasn't able to continue. Tom Kelley wasn't ready to take over. And Cleveland Manager Birdie Tebbetts wasn't about to give in.

But Kelley came in, Tebbetts gave in and the Detroit Tigers caved in.

The Indians crushed the Tigers 13-2 Wednesday night despite the early departure of southpaw ace McDowell and Tebbetts' protest over reliever Kelley's lack of warm-up time.

McDowell, 4-1 on the year but winless since May 1, left the game in the second inning after straining a muscle in his pitching shoulder. Kelley was rushed in and retired the side, then returned to the bullpen while the Indians were at bat.

The umpires called him back, however, and Tebbetts lodged his protest.

"They told me there was a memo put out this winter which said a pitcher could not warm up in the bullpen while he was in the game and his team was batting," the Cleveland manager said afterward. "I never saw it. I can't see any reason for it if there is such a rule."

The rhubarb became academic when Kelley proceeded to tame the Tigers on five hits while the Indians were pounding three Detroit pitchers for 13, including four singles by Chico Salmon and homers by Leo O. Wagner and Don Crandall.

Kelley, a 22-year-old rookie, did not yield a hit until Norm Cash singled with two out in the fifth and breezed to his second victory without a loss.

The victory increased the Indians' American League lead to 3½ games over the second place Tigers.

At New York, Mickey Mantle hit two homers in one game for the first time since August, 1964, driving in five runs and powering the Yankees to an 11-6 victory over California.

Elsewhere, Minnesota beat Boston 7-5 on Jimmie Hall's two-run homer in the 10th, snapping the Red Sox's winning streak at six; Chicago edged Baltimore 3-2 and Kansas City trimmed Washington 3-1.

In National League play, Cincinnati whipped Atlanta 6-2, St. Louis slugged Chicago 9-1, Houston battered New York 7-1, Los Angeles nipped Philadelphia 2-1 and Pittsburgh topped San Francisco 3-2.

Mantle rapped a two-run homer off loser Dean Chance in the first inning and hit his fourth of the year with two aboard in the sixth, giving him a lifetime total of 477 and eighth place on the all-time homer list. He went into the game tied with Stan Musial.

Two-run doubles by Elston Howard and Roger Repoz helped the Yankees record their high run total for the season and nail their sixth victory in the last seven games.

Hall homered off Red Sox reliever Dick Radatz in the 10th after a one-out walk to Harmon Killebrew. The Red Sox had scored twice in the seventh and then tied it in the ninth on Carl Yastrzemski's two-run double.

Killebrew belted a two-run homer and starting pitcher Jim Kaat delivered two more Minnesota runs with a pair of singles.

The White Sox, who had dropped eight of their previous 10 games, scored two runs in the seventh on a poor throw by Baltimore catcher Adny Etchebarren and a balk by pitcher Steve Barber for their margin over the Orioles. John Romano homered for Chicago in the second inning.

Five Kansas City pitchers stopped the Senators on three Speedway will be more complicated. Drivers already will have spent a month in time trials and other preliminaries, including enough social events to exhaust a dowager duchess.

Most of the dinners and luncheons are sponsored by oil and accessory firms whose competition, if not more intense than the drivers, at least is spread over a longer period.

Fantastic amounts of money reportedly are spent to persuade a car owner and driver to use a particular product, especially among potential winners. In addition, about $200,000 in special prizes is offered for cars using the donors' oil additive, tires, sparkplugs and the like.

Close-up views of the 33 race cars reveal they are almost covered with decals showing what shock absorbers, water hoses and other accessories they use. This makes for a quick check after the race to determine the special awards for which they qualify.

One sparkplug company has sponsored for many years a club of drivers who have finished the 500 without relief. It was called the most exclusive club in racing. Then another sparkplug manufacturer started a club for drivers who have led the race.

The second club proved almost too exclusive last year. It didn't pick up any new members. Only Clark and A.J. Foyt led the race and they had done so before.

The most intense competition for four years has been among two tire companies. For decades, only one made tires especially for Indianapolis. The second has moved into the field so successfully that it will provide the tires for 16 of the 33 starters Monday.

All of the automotive firms contend their auto racing experience helps them improve their products for the ordinary motorist. The racing mechanics and engineers say this probably is especially true about tires.

Ohioan To Box Briton June 21

MEDINA, Ohio (AP)—Amos Johnson of Medina, last man to defeat Cassius Clay, has signed to meet Brian London in Liverpool, England, June 21.

It's not the fight Johnson wants most—against Clay. But it could be a good one.

London, 32, was knocked out by Floyd Patterson in 11 rounds in a heavyweight title fight in 1959. He owns a knock-out victory over Pete Rademacher, but has been defeated by such fighters as Willie Pastrano, Henry Cooper, Eddie Machen and Ingemar Johansson.

Johnson, 27, ranked seventh by the World Boxing Association, fifth by Ring Magazine, decided Clay in the Pan-American Games trials of 1959 when both were amateurs and says he will fight him again, "winner take all."

Jim Dickson, Lew Krausse, Paul Lindblad and Jack Aker pitched hitless relief over the final 3 1/3 innings, preserving Fred Talbot's second victory.

Viking '9' Hands Circleville Tigers 10-1 Diamond Loss

Just about everybody got into the act Wednesday at Teays Valley when the Viking baseball team handed Circleville High School a 10-1 loss.

Seventeen members of the winning team stepped to the plate, while 14 Roundtowners saw action.

The Vikings started with a bang by cracking three consecutive singles in the first inning. Glen Gulick opened the barrage, Rick Pickering, the Viking hurler blasted one and Mike Lombardo followed with the third. The next batter was out but Rick Brown's single scored the third run of the inning.

In the second, Gary Wilson walked, stole second, moved to third on a passed ball and scored on Gulick's single.

IN THE third and fourth frames the Vikings went hitless and scoreless. But in the fifth, a hit batsman and three singles scored two runs. One of the hits was by Gulick, who went three-for-three at the plate.

The sixth inning saw Don Cordle, Circleville hurler, begin to tire. The first man up flied out. Cordle walked the second man and the third batter flied out.

After that, Kinsell singled, Cook was walked, Pickering was hit by a pitched ball, Rife walked and Kirk was hit by a pitched ball.

At this point, Rick Congrove relieved Cordle, walked the first man he faced and struck out the next man for the last

out but not before the Vikings scored four runs.

The Tigers had only one other hit, a single by Joe Winner in the fifth.

PICKERING walked one batter, fanned eight and allowed only two hits. Cordle started for Circleville and went 5 2/3 innings. He walked five, fanned four, was bombed for nine hits and hit three batters with pitched balls.

Rick Congrove relieved him, facing two men. He walked one and struck out one.

It marked the tenth time this season the Red and Black has gone down to defeat. It was the second loss to Teays Valley. The Tigers have won only one game.

Circleville will host Hillsboro today in a South Central Ohio League contest. Tomorrow the Tigers travel to Wilmington to wrap up the 1966 season.

Teays Valley plays Columbus Bishop Hartley in a two-night doubleheader tomorrow to close out the season.

OSU Grad To Pilot Port Clinton Quint

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP)—Jim Robinson, 23, was named Wednesday head basketball coach at Port Clinton High School.

Robinson, scheduled to graduate from Ohio State University in June, succeeds Charles Felhaber, who retires after five years as Port Clinton coach. Robinson, a Toledo Woodward High School graduate, currently teaches at the Ohio School for the Deaf in Columbus.

Keough Is Checked After Lung Collapse

CINCINNATI (AP)—Utility outfielder Marty Keough of the Atlanta Braves was admitted to Christ Hospital Wednesday night, and doctors said he had a partial collapse of the right lung.

Doctors said Keough was in good condition, but will be kept here three or four days for observation. Atlanta purchased Keough from the Reds this spring.

3 Area Horsemen On Opening Card At Scioto Downs

Three Pickaway County horsemen will be in the sulky Friday night when the racing season begins at Scioto Downs.

Emmett Ebenhack, last year's leading driver at Scioto will be out to defend his title.

The first race finds Ebenhack behind Claire Lite. In the nightcap, he will be guiding his own Dick Frisco, a 4-year-old that has taken a record of 2:08 1-5.

In the third race, Forrest Short has entered Sara Ann Scotch, a 3-year-old that paced a 2:11 mile last year. In the seventh he will be driving George Fissell's Jet Pride.

Ralph Strous, Saltcreek Twp. farmer and horseman, has Melody Lady entered in the sixth race at Scioto Downs.

Groom Trophy Is Highlight Of Annual Kiwanis Show

Highlight of the award presentations for the annual Kiwanis Charity Horse Show, scheduled Saturday and Sunday at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds, will come when the winner of the Five Gaited Stake is announced.

The Virginia Groom Memorial Challenge Trophy again will be presented. A memorial to Mrs. J.E. Groom the trophy was given to the show by Mrs. C.G. Shulze.

Mrs. Groom served the Kiwanis Horse Show as its secretary until her death just before the 1964 show. She was for many years an active horse show exhibitor and was a charter member of the Pickaway Saddle and Bridle Club.

For a time, she served as an adviser of the 4-H and Colt and Equitation Club.

A REPLICA of the Virginia Groom trophy is given to the winner of the Five Gaited Stake. Any exhibitor winning the trophy three times will be given permanent possession.

A trophy and six ribbons will be presented in each of the 34 classes of the horse show. Classes have been sponsored by local businesses and industries.

There are 12 classes scheduled for the Saturday evening session of the show, which begins with the Open Jumper Class at 7 p. m. The Sunday afternoon session begins at 1 p. m. and the night session at 7.

Richmond Drops Jets to Second

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rookie Billy Southworth extended his one-man attack and drove in four runs Wednesday night as the Richmond Braves whipped Columbus 6-2, dropping the Jets to second place in the International League.

It was just Tuesday night when Southworth drove in three runs with a pair of homers to lead Richmond in handing Columbus a 5-1 loss.

Due to Wednesday night's loss, partly attributed to a homer and a double by Southworth, the Jets fell into second place behind Jacksonville even though the Suns lost 2-1 to the Toledo Mud Hens in a rain-shortened five-inning encounter.

Other games saw Buffalo stop Rochester 3-0 as they traded fourth and fifth places and Toronto beat Syracuse 6-4.

Player, Marr Set For Akron Duel

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Gary Player, the defending U.S. Golf Association National Open winner, will meet PGA champion Dave Marr on Memorial Day in the 15th annual National Golf Day at the Firestone Country Club.

Golfers across the country who started participating in Golf Day last Monday will match their scores against those of Player and Marr who tee off on their 18-hole round at 1 p. m.

Those who beat the winner's score, with the use of handicap, will receive certificates from the Professional Golfers Association.

'500' Drivers Are Loaded With Many Social Affairs

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — In the first Indianapolis 500-mile auto race in 1911, the drivers lined up according to times entries were filed and simply chugged away to about 75 miles per hour until they finished, blew an engine or wrecked.

The 50th running of the Memorial Day classic on Monday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will be more complicated. Drivers already will have spent a month in time trials and other preliminaries, including enough social events to exhaust a dowager duchess.

Most of the dinners and luncheons are sponsored by oil and accessory firms whose competition, if not more intense than the drivers, at least is spread over a longer period.

Fantastic amounts of money reportedly are spent to persuade a car owner and driver to use a particular product, especially among potential winners. In addition, about $200,000 in special prizes is offered for cars using the donors' oil additive, tires, sparkplugs and the like.

Close-up views of the 33 race cars reveal they are almost covered with decals showing what shock absorbers, water hoses and other accessories they use. This makes for a quick check after the race to determine the special awards for which they qualify.

One sparkplug company has sponsored for many years a club of drivers who have finished the 500 without relief. It was called the most exclusive club in racing. Then another sparkplug manufacturer started a club for drivers who have led the race.

The second club proved almost too exclusive last year. It didn't pick up any new members. Only Clark and A.J. Foyt led the race and they had done so before.

The most intense competition for four years has been among two tire companies. For decades, only one made tires especially for Indianapolis. The second has moved into the field so successfully that it will provide the tires for 16 of the 33 starters Monday.

All of the automotive firms contend their auto racing experience helps them improve their products for the ordinary motorist. The racing mechanics and engineers say this probably is especially true about tires.

Ohioan To Box Briton June 21

MEDINA, Ohio (AP)—Amos Johnson of Medina, last man to defeat Cassius Clay, has signed to meet Brian London in Liverpool, England, June 21.

It's not the fight Johnson wants most—against Clay. But it could be a good one.

London, 32, was knocked out by Floyd Patterson in 11 rounds in a heavyweight title fight in 1959. He owns a knockout victory over Pete Rademacher, but has been defeated by such fighters as Willie Pastrano, Henry Cooper, Eddie Machen and Ingemar Johansson.

Johnson, 27, ranked seventh by the World Boxing Association, fifth by Ring Magazine, decided Clay in the Pan-American Games trials of 1959 when both were amateurs and says he will fight him again. "winner take all."

hits while Ed Charles' first homer of the season triggered a three-run rally in the sixth.

Jim Dickson, Lew Krausse, Paul Lindblad and Jack Aker pitched hitless relief over the final 3 1/3 innings, preserving Fred Talbot's second victory.

Two-run doubles by Elston Howard and Roger Repoz helped the Yankees record their high run total for the season and nail their sixth victory in the last seven games.

Hall homered off Red Sox reliever Dick Radatz in the 10th after a one-out walk to Harmon Killebrew. The Red Sox had scored twice in the seventh and then tied it in the ninth on Carl Yastrzemski's two-run double.

Killebrew belted a two-run homer and starting pitcher Jim Kaat delivered two more Minnesota runs with a pair of singles.

The White Sox, who had dropped eight of their previous 10 games, scored two runs in the seventh on a poor throw by Baltimore catcher Adny Etchebarren and a balk by pitcher Steve Barber for their margin over the Orioles. John Romano homered for Chicago in the second inning.

Viking '9' Hands Circleville Tigers 10-1 Diamond Loss

Just about everybody got into the act Wednesday at Teays Valley when the Viking baseball team handed Circleville High School a 10-1 loss.

Seventeen members of the winning team stepped to the plate, while 14 Roundtowners saw action.

The Vikings started with a bang by cracking three consecutive singles in the first inning. Glen Gulick opened the barrage, Rick Pickering, the Viking hurler blasted one and Mike Lombardo followed with the third. The next batter was out but Rick Brown's single scored the third run of the inning.

In the second, Gary Wilson walked, stole second, moved to third on a passed ball and scored on Gulick's single.

IN THE third and fourth frames the Vikings went hitless and scoreless. But in the fifth, a hit batsman and three singles scored two runs. One of the hits was by Gulick, who went three-for-three at the plate.

The sixth inning saw Don Cordle, Circleville hurler, begin to tire. The first man up flew out. Cordle walked the second man and the third batter flew out.

After that, Kinsell singled, Cook was walked, Pickering was hit by a pitched ball, Rife walked and Kirk was hit by a pitched ball.

At this point, Rick Congrove relieved Cordle, walked the first man he faced and struck out the next man for the last

out but not before the Vikings scored four runs.

Circleville's only run was unearned. Bob Walisa singled in the top of the seventh, advanced to second on a fielder's choice and then scored on an error.

The Tigers had only one other hit, a single by Joe Winner in the fifth.

PICKERING walked one batter, fanned eight and allowed only two hits. Cordle started for Circleville and went 5 2/3 innings. He walked five, fanned four, was bombed for nine hits and hit three batters with pitched balls.

Rick Congrove relieved him, facing two men. He walked one and struck out one.

It marked the tenth time this season the Red and Black has gone down to defeat. It was the second loss to Teays Valley. The Tigers have won only one game.

Circleville will host Hillsboro today, in a South Central Ohio League contest. Tomorrow the Tigers travel to Wilmington to wrap up the 1966 season.

Teays Valley plays Columbus Bishop Hartley in a two-night doubleheader tomorrow to close out the season.

Keough Is Checked After Lung Collapse

CINCINNATI (AP) — Utility outfielder Marty Keough of the Atlanta Braves was admitted to Christ Hospital Wednesday night, and doctors said he had a partial collapse of the right lung.

Doctors said Keough was in good condition, but will be kept here three or four days for observation. Atlanta purchased Keough from the Reds this spring.

3 Area Horsemen On Opening Card At Scioto Downs

Three Pickaway County horsemen will be in the sulky Friday night when the racing season begins at Scioto Downs.

Emmett Ebenhack, last year's leading driver at Scioto will be out to defend his title.

The first race finds Ebenhack behind Claire Lite. In the nightcap, he will be guiding his own Dick Frisco, a 4-year-old that has taken a record of 2:08 1/5.

In the third race, Forrest Short has entered Sara Ann Scotch, a 3-year-old that paced a 2:11 mile last year. In the seventh he will be driving George Fissell's Jet Pride.

Ralph Strous, Saltcreek Twp. farmer and horseman, has Melody Lady entered in the sixth race at Scioto Downs.

OSU Pitcher Expects Big Fat Bonus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Steve Arlin is a big fellow who thinks big, especially in terms of money.

The Ohio State pitching ace makes no bones about a major league baseball career.

"Don't be surprised if I sign a contract next month," said the 6-foot-2, 190 pound junior from Lima.

Arlin passed up a reported $80,000 to sign with the Detroit Tigers after last summer's major league draft.

"I talked to the Tigers and I'm not about to say what they offered me. But I never told anyone it was $80,000.

It's obvious, however, that Arlin is confident he can obtain a six figure bonus.

"Rick Mondy of Arizona State got $104,000 for signing with Kansas City," Arlin noted. "I think I'm worth as much as Monday is. I have a lot of confidence in myself."

But Arlin is quick to point out there are some other conditions to be met, besides money.

An honor student, Arlin plans to go to dentistry school next year. He wants to continue his education and play ball too, which means some sort of agreement with the club that signs him.

"I won't just play baseball because then I'll lose my draft deferment," Arlin said.

The Buckeye right hander has evidently impressed a lot of scouts and opposing batsmen as well.

He finished 13-2 last year, losing only to NCAA champion

Arizona State. This season, he owns an 8-1 record and boasts a 1.90 ERA, allowing only 47 hits and 36 walks in 71 innings. He has struck out 83.

"I haven't pitched enough because of rain," Arlin complained. "My control hasn't been as good as it could be."

Arlin said he's upset about a recent interview with the newspaper, Collegiate Baseball, in which he was quoted as saying, "I have every intention of breaking the Ohio State school record for bonus payments."

That means he planned to top

the $108,000 outfielder Frank Howard got from the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I never told them that," Arlin insists. "I'm not after any record . . . I just want to get what I think I'm worth."

Nighttime Cane Field Work Booked in Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Havana radio says extra workers are being recruited on a large scale to chop sugar cane at night.

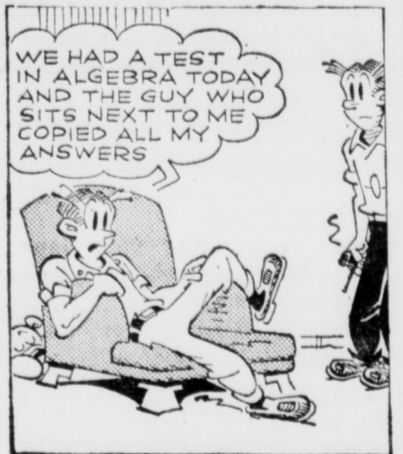

"All kinds of lights are turning night into day" in the cane fields, the broadcast said.

"I haven't pitched enough because of rain," Arlin complained. "My control hasn't been as good as it could be."

Arlin's best pitches are a hopping fastball and a sharp-breaking curve that the bespectacled hurler isn't afraid to throw in a tight spot.

Arlin said he's upset about a recent interview with the newspaper, Collegiate Baseball, in which he was quoted as saying, "I have every intention of breaking the Ohio State school record for bonus payments."

That means he planned to top

the $108,000 outfielder Frank Howard got from the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I never told them that," Arlin insists. "I'm not after any record . . . I just want to get what I think I'm worth."

Nearly 900 Patrolmen To Work Holiday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (P) — State Highway Patrol Supt. Robert Chiaramonte will head personally the biggest contingent of road patrol officers ever assembled in Ohio to try to curb highway accidents during the long Memorial Day weekend.

The superintendent said Wednesday that he and all other supervisory personnel will be in cars helping regular patrolmen during the 78-hour holiday period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Memorial Day May 30.

Chiaramonte will direct patrol operations involving a total of nearly 900 men. Supervisors' desk work will be taken over by patrol auxiliaries, he said.

They will be helped by State Highway Department personnel who have been directed by Highway Director P. E. Masheter to patrol Ohio's 950-mile freeway system to help stranded motorists. This will permit the patrol to devote full time to enforcement.

Despite the stepped up efforts, officials of the Highway Safety Department are predicting 33 persons will lose their lives in Ohio traffic during the long, holiday period.

Chiaramonte noted that Ohio motorists averaged 10.4 fatalities per day during the 1965 Memorial Day weekend. He said this year's "full traffic supervision program" is designed to see that this doesn't happen again.

Gov. James A. Rhodes and spokesmen for his administration launched a program early this month for a "deathless" Memorial Day weekend but they conceded such an accomplishment would require "the aid and assistance of every Ohioan."

Highway Safety Director Warren C. Nelson said: "I firmly believe that if every one of Ohio's residents appoints himself a traffic safety officer for this four-day weekend, Ohio can realize the first death-free weekend in history."

The Ohio Junior Chamber of Commerce plans to help this weekend by serving free coffee at state rest areas and parks, and the Ohio Turnpike will display signs urging the use of seat belts.

Sophia Loren Claims She's 'Simple Girl'

NEW YORK (AP) — Sophia Loren may be a fiery actress on the screen and a sex symbol in the minds of millions, but she is "a very simple Neapolitan girl" at heart.

That's what she told reporters Tuesday when she arrived to attend a dinner at the Museum of Modern Art, where she is featured in an exhibition of photographs.

When a reporter suggested that she might be an unusually pretty Neapolitan girl, she offered a reply that may start a bachelors stampede to Italy.

"Thank you," she said. "But maybe you have never been in Naples."

GE Names Whitmore to New Position

HAROLD WHITMORE

Harold H. (Bud) Whitmore, 832 Atwater Ave., has been named district engineer for the Ohio Valley Sales District of General Electric's Large Lamp Department.

Whitmore will be located in Cincinnati. The announcement was made today by E. G. Grigg, manager of the local lamp plant.

Whitmore joined General Electric in July of 1956 at Circleville Lamp Plant as a quality engineer. He has also served here as foreman engineer. He currently is glass technology specialist, with responsibility for incoming materials and customer service.

Prior to joining General Electric, Whitmore served as a 1st Lieutenant in the U. S. Army. Assignments included duty at Aberdeen Proving Ground in Maryland and Rossford Ordnance Depot in Toledo.

The engineer holds a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from Purdue University. While a resident of Circleville, he was active in Boy Scout work. He is currently Master of Pickaway Masonic Lodge 23, F & AM. He is a deacon in the Presbyterian Church and a member of the Young Republican Club.

Whitmore, his wife Conna, and their two children will move to Cincinnati as soon as housing arrangements are completed. In his new assignment he will handle proper lighting application to customer needs and investigate consumer problems.

His responsibilities will involve thousands of lamp types manufactured by nine Large Lamp Department plants.

How To Stay Alive Memorial Day

Here Are Six Questions To Test How Safe a Driver You Really Are

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Several hundred Americans will die in highway accidents during the long Memorial Day weekend. Thousands will be injured, many permanently crippled.

The National Safety Council estimates that the death toll alone will be between 460 and 540. And the vast majority of serious crashes involving two or more cars will occur in one of six common road situations.

The Associated Press, in cooperation with the council has devised a simple test which helps spell out what action you should take when these collision-prone situations develop.

Situation No. 1—You're following another car in a stream of traffic. The driver ahead of you stops suddenly. You jam on your brakes, too late to prevent a crash. The chances for this collision taking place could have been lessened by:

A—Always driving 100 feet behind the car in front of you.

C—Veering sharply into the oncoming lane.

D—Maintaining one car length for each 10 miles of speed, thus providing sufficient room for a safe emergency stop.

Situation No. 2—You're out front with someone following you. You know what you're going to do, but the driver behind you doesn't. You slow down suddenly for a turn and—crunch!

You could have lessened chances for this accident taking place by:

A—Signaling your intentions well before reaching the point of potential collision.

B—By accelerating quickly just before turning.

C—By watching the vehicle behind you in the rear view mirror and veering sharply to the right and over the curb when you see a collision is imminent.

D—By watching the vehicle in your rear view mirror and veer-

Situation No. 3—as you drive along, an oncoming car drifts into your lane, or starts a left turn in front of you. Or a car coming toward you crosses the center line into your lane. These situations all can mean a head-on collision, the deadliest crash of all.

Such a crash possibly could have been avoided by:

A—Stopping your vehicle immediately.

B—Yielding your lane to the oncoming vehicle; you switch to his lane.

C—Speeding up and getting past the oncoming vehicle before he comes all the way over into your lane.

D—Pull to the right, flash your lights, blow your horn, wake him up, slow down.

Situation No. 4—you approach an intersection and have the right of way as another car approaches from the side road. The other driver ignores the rule of right of way, or runs a stop sign, or ignores a red light. You're right—dead right!

The chances for this accident occurring could have been lessened by:

A—Stepping on the gas to get across the intersection before the other guy.

B—Assuming the other driver will always obey all traffic regulations and courtesies.

C—Approaching the intersection with your foot off the gas pedal and poised over the brake pedal, checking traffic in both directions, and then yielding, even though you have the legal right of way.

D—Slam on your brakes as hard as you can to let the other driver know you are angry.

Situation No. 5—When another driver tries to pass you there are many collision courses. He may cut back in sharply in front of you. You may change lanes just as the other driver is trying to pass you on that side.

This kind of accident could possibly be avoided by:

A—Hitting the brakes as hard as you can.

B—Hitting your brakes, and pulling off on the shoulder at the right.

C—Reducing your speed, thus making it easy for other drivers to pass.

D—Blowing your horn, and turning on your lights.

Situation No. 6—you attempt to pass another car on a two-lane road and suddenly find you can't make it. You risk a side-swipe if you cut back to the right too soon. You risk a head-on crash if you don't.

B—Speeding up and getting back in the right lane fast.

C—Hitting the brakes and fail-

Mayor To Commute To Office in Copter

NEW YORK K(AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has found a way to rise above New York City's transportation problems, which have included subway, bus and taxi strikes since he took office Jan. 1.

He is going to fly to and from his City Hall office and Gracie Mansion, the mayor's official residence.

A helicopter pad is being built just off the grounds of the mansion above the East River and should be finished within a month.

Lindsay will then be able to fly from home to the Wall Street heliport near City Hall, cutting his traveling time from about 40 to 15 minutes.

French/City wieners have that good meat flavor.

Of course, there's a reason for this mellow goodness. Only protein-packed cuts of beef and pork are used and blended with imported spices (the kind every good cook has on her kitchen spice shelf.) It's then gently smoked with the tangy aroma of hardwood embers to give you the best tasting wiener you'll find anywhere.

They're pre-cooked so you don't have to. Just heat for plump tender goodness.

That's for sure!

French/City wieners have that good meat flavor.

Of course, there's a reason for this mellow goodness. Only protein-packed cuts of beef and pork are used and blended with imported spices (the kind every good cook has on her kitchen spice shelf.) It's then gently smoked with the tangy aroma of hardwood embers to give you the best tasting wiener you'll find anywhere.

They're pre-cooked so you don't have to. Just heat for plump tender goodness. That's for sure!

...and gently smoked!
